DIVORCE-MUST YOU SELL THE HOUSE?

Divorce settlements allow certain modifications in tax law. The rules get "bent" for retirement accounts, pensions, IRAs—and tax-advantaged home sales.

Normally, to qualify for a tax-free gain on the sale of a home, an individual or couple must have used it as a principal residence for at least two of the previous five years. The benefit can be substantial: $250,000 for an individual or $500,000 for a couple.

In case of divorce, the entire exclusion can be maintained, even if one spouse moves out and the house is not sold for several years—perhaps until the children leave home for college or work. The couple should retain joint ownership of the property. Under a special tax rule, as long as one spouse has exclusive use of the house under the divorce or separation agreement and continues to meet the principal-residence rule, the other partner retains the right to the tax-free gain.

Divorce is a special tax situation. Discuss it with the financial people at:

Nov. 17th Linden Tree Coffeehouse presents: Mary McCaslin and The Late Bloomers

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse continues their twenty-third season of acoustic music at the Unitarian-Universalist Church in Wakefield. This month's concert will feature, the "Queen of the West" Californian, Mary McCaslin, in her only Massachusetts stop this year, on Saturday, November 17th. Also on the program will be an outstanding East Coast duo, The Late Bloomers from Southern Maine.

Mary McCaslin represents an unbroken link between traditional folksingers and today's "new folk" singer-songwriters. Her music ranges from ballads of the old west to those in modern times. She is also known for her haunting renditions of pop standards and rock classics such as "Ghost Riders in the Sky," the Beatles' "Things We Said Today," and the Supremes' "My World is Empty." Her versions of the Beatles "Blackbird" and the Who's "Pinball Wizard" are made more unique by her clawhammer banjo accompaniment. Dirty Linen Magazine, "a sage writer, warmly expressive singer, and exquisite player." She comes East this year with a new recording: Better Late Than Never with twelve songs that includes her originals along with her distinctive interpretations of songs like "Unchained Melody" and "Bei Mir Bist Du Schon"

Many of Mary's songs have been recorded by others such as David Bromberg, Stan Rogers, and Kate Wolf. Regarded as a pioneer of open tunings, and known for her distinctive vocal style, Mary's influences can be heard in many of the younger folk performers. Selections from her eight CDs are frequently played on folk radio stations such as WUMB, 91.9fm in Boston.

Late Bloomers are the duo of Brett Kinney & Randy Browning. Together they play a fun, original mix of new and traditional folk, blues, jazz, and ragtime. Their amazing guitar picking, with some banjo thrown in at times, interesting songs, and a stage presence that all adds up to the reason the Linden Tree Coffeehouse invites them back and back again.

After years as self-taught musicians, they met at Berklee College of Music, in line for a mandatory film about the terrible things that happen to people who default on their student loans. Brett was working at a record store when he first heard Doc Watson and Tony Rice, and Randy was supposed to be in class when he found the collections of Alan Lomax and Harry Smith in the library. After college, they continued exploring traditional folk and modern acoustic music together, performing regularly in Boston area coffeehouses.

In recent years their music was honored with the Kerrville 'New Folk' award, and they were voted among the top 5 audience favorites as emerging artists at the Falcon Ridge Folk Festival.

They play a variety of music: modern instrumentals and story songs, with a lively approach to traditional folk. As musicians, they have a simple goal: to continue to grow in new and interesting ways. Their latest CD is Radical Rags, songs new and old, connected by positive social change. www.LateBloomersMusic.com

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church 326 Main Street, downtown Wakefield. Tickets may be purchased at the door for beginning at 7:30.

Tickets are just $15, thanks to the Massachusetts Cultural Council, Wakefield Chapter. Home-made baked goods and beverages are available before the show begins and during intermission. www.LindenTreeCoffeehouse.org, 781-246-2836.

Everyone invited to Wilmington's Congregational Church Fair Nov. 10th

WILMINGTON - On Saturday, Nov. 10th from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. the Congregational Church in Wilmington will be hosting their annual fair. They have held this fair almost every year for over one hundred years; but this is a modern fair. All the crafts and similar items for sale have been lovingly hand made by members of the Church.

Some of the items they will feature for sale are needlework, jewelry, plants, holiday decorations and their famous "country store".

They will again have baskets packed with items for everyone from teens to new moms to grads and dads. They are all beautifully put together ready to gift to a loved one.

The "Children's Store" is an area where only children are allowed. The items for sale in this area are things that children can buy to give as gifts to their parents, or aunts and uncles or friends, or for themselves. Everything in this room is priced for a child's budget.

The Country Store will feature home baked beans, cheese, potato salad and cole slaw along with baked goods of every description. All ready to take home to serve to your family later.

The luncheon will be served from before 11 a.m. til it's all gone or 2 p.m. whichever comes first. It will feature Bob's famous chili served with corn muffins, sausage subs, tuna and egg salad rolls, new this year: pizza. For desert - homemade pies, similar to the ones on the baked table of the country store.

Everyone has heard the term

"white elephant". Now is your chance to find out what that means! The "white elephant" room is where the attic treasures for everyone can be found and purchased very inexpensively.

They will also have a silent auction where more expensive items and gift certificates from local merchants including gift certificates to many local restaurants and Elia's Country Store, RMA Fitness Center will be available for bid. One prized item in the auction is a hand crocheted baby afghan.

If you only go one fair this fall, this is the one. This is the best! Don't miss it.

The Congregational Church in Wilmington is the big white church with the clock located at 220 Middlesex Ave. (Route 62) in Wilmington.

Ryan Flynn and Joshua Scholl checked out the goodies for sale at the bake table run by Laura Scholl to benefit the Tewksbury Special Ed PAC. The fundraising event was held on Saturday at the Rec Center.

Making the connection

MWRA connection a testament to inter-community cooperation

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The final piece of underground equipment for the Massachusetts Water Resource Association (MWRA)'s permanent connection to Wilmington was laid in the ground on Monday morning, as town and city officials looked on.

The two-piece concrete junction box that was buried at the south corner of the intersection of Mishawum Road and Washington Street in Woburn will contain the metering system for water pumped from MWRA sources to the town of Wilmington.

Woburn Mayor Thomas L. McLaughlin was on hand, along with Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira, Wilmington Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Michael Newhouse, and Wilmington

Water & Sewer Superintendent Michael Woods, to commemorate the symbolic end of a collaborative project between the two towns that spanned several years.

"This is an important milestone in a multi-year project to ensure the quality and the quantity of water that Wilmington needs," Newhouse said.

Pedestrian struck on Salem St.

WILMINGTON - The bright morning sun may be to blame for a tragic accident that occurred in front of the North Intermediate School on Salem Street Tuesday morning.

Beverly Rees, 76, of Wilmington, was struck by a motor vehicle while crossing the street at approximately 11:20 a.m. Due to the extent of her injuries, a MedFlight helicopter was landed in the North Intermediate School field and transported her to a Boston medical facility. Rees has survived, though the status of her condition was not available when this edition went to print.

"The incident is still under investigation, but it does not at this time appear that speed was a factor," said Wilmington Police Chief Michael Begonis. "It does appear that glare from the sun was a factor."

Wilmington Police, with the assistance of the State Police Accident Reconstruction specialists, are investigating the incident.

Stepping it up against MRSA

Town protecting students from antibiotic-resistant infection

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - To be very clear: There have been no cases of MRSA diagnosed in the Wilmington or Tewksbury School populations at this point. That said, both schools are taking a proactive approach to educating the school populations.

According to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (MRSA) is a kind of bacteria, a staph infection, which is resistant to some kinds of antibiotics. It is sometimes pronounced as a single word, "mersa" and sometimes said as the initials "M-R-S-A." MRSA is now being diagnosed more commonly in hospitals, schools, pre-schools, and sports locker rooms across the country.

According to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's website, "MRSA is a type of staph, so

Five students commended in National Merit Scholarship Program

WILMINGTON - Wilmington Public School Superintendent Joanne Benton announced at the October 24th School Committee meeting that five Wilmington Students were selected as Commended Students in the National Merit Scholarship Program (NMSC) and two of those students also received the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents Award (MASS Award).

The National Merit Scholarship Program is an academic competition for recognition and scholarships that began in 1955. High school students enter the National Merit Program by taking the Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT), a test that screens approximately 1.4 million entrants each year and by meeting published program entry/participation requirements.

Tests are administered in the fall. The following April, high

Wilmington residents celebrate milestone birthdays

By JULIE FENNELL

WILMINGTON - Last week, two of Wilmington's longtime residents celebrated milestone birthdays at the Buzzell Senior Center. Mary DiGirolamo, a resident for the past 49 years, marked her 99th birthday. One day later, Ann Latta, who's lived in town for the past 44 years, blew out candles in honor of her 88th birthday.

Both women are a testament to the past and are living, breathing history books for today's younger generations. Having lived through historic milestones including World War I, The Great Depression and World War II, they are among the few who can personally recall events that most of us can only read about or watch on The History Channel.

Between bingo games and sewing lessons, both women generously agreed to be interviewed by the Town Crier and shared a few life experiences as well as memories of

WILMINGTON - Firefighters battled a blaze that engulfed a house on Wildwood Street on Saturday, October 27th. Homeowners were not at home at the time of the fire, and there were no civilian injuries.

A call from a neighbor came in to the Public Safety Building at 9:22 p.m. and firefighters were on the scene within four minutes to find visible fire at 148 Wildwood Street. A second alarm was struck immediately, resulting in assistance from fire departments in Tewksbury, North Reading, and Reading.

Horror is a family affair for the Dellascio clan

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON and BOSTON - "We always try to send them out screaming."

Local haunted house savants, the Dellascio's, bring new verve to the genre of scaring the dickens out of people. Getting their start in the basement of the family home in Wilmington, these siblings and their retinue made it all the way to Spookyworld with their creepy, slightly twisted view of the world. The Crier talked to Lisa Dellascio this week about all that the group has accomplished, what makes scaring people fun, and why they keep coming back for more.

"When you walk through one of our haunted houses, every room is like someone else's nightmare. You are going to be hit with so many different things. Every hallway is different, every room is different. When you walk through the curtain, you have no idea what

Popcorn sale success

Dear Editor,
Cub Scout Pack 56 would like to thank all those who made its popcorn sale a big success. Running the fund raiser for the first time, the Pack was not sure what to expect. It was mildly surprised and greatly appreciative of the support shown by all who stopped by to buy some popcorn or offer a donation. The Scouts learn a lesson in salesmanship and in the generosity of the Wilmington community.

The Pack would especially like to thank Elia's Country Store for donating a space for us to sell the popcorn and the Town Crier for helping to advertise the event.

Thanks.
Sincerely,
Chris Ferrara

Movie night

Thank you!

A very big thank you to all the children and parents that came to the Wildwood's first movie night for the 2007-2008 school year. There were about 70 children in attendance with their parents. The movie followed the final day of the Scholastic Book Fair that was held at the school that week.

We are very grateful to Mr. Murphy at the Woburn Showcase Cinema for donating 3 bags of popcorn for our movie night. We were also lucky enough to have popcorn donated by Joe Caraco at AMC Movie Theatre.

The goal of the Wildwood PAC is to increase home and school communication, provide cultural and family activities and sponsor fundraising activities to supplement the schools budget. It is through the generous support of parents, families and our neighbors that we are able to give back to our school that gives so much. Thank you again for all of you who attended the movie and purchased from the book fair.

Sincerely,
Gail O'Shea
and
Donna Palmerino
Co-Chairs, Wildwood PAC

Make the time

Dear Editor,

Few words are used so often but have such an elusive, powerful meaning. I'm talking about time. Time is used to speak about pleasant times. I'm having a great time, I'm having the time of my life, what a wonderful time we had. It's used for unpleasant times. That was the worst time I've ever had, I don't want to think about that time.

Time can fly, time can drag. You can waste time, kill time, mark time and make time but it's never good to serve time.

Think about how often you hear someone refer to time in the course of one day. "I'll call you later if I have time." I have to be on time for my 2:00 meeting. "I was a little late this morning because I didn't get up on time."

One thing is very clear about time; we all wish we had more time. The older you get, you realize how precious time is and the time you spend with loved ones is so special.

So make time for the things you enjoy and don't waste time because it is a foregone conclusion that we will all personally run out of time when it is time to go.

The Family Therapist

Sex before their time

Sexual pervers are doing a great injustice to our young children. It's getting to a point where innocents are in jeopardy when they are alone and unprotected. Parents are concerned that their children will become sexually involved before their time. Government, parents, and news media are constantly reminding us the dangers of our children being molested. The disgusting possibility of some strange person becoming intimate with our children is sickening. However, most molesters are a close relative or trusted friend. Innocent children are vulnerable to enticement by a clever adult.

We all realize the dangers of premature sexual involvement. Yet the greatest subtle encouragement comes from those who truly care. Children who had no thoughts of sexual involvement are presented with condoms and birth control pills. Information about birth control is presented to children as young as eleven-years old. This ruling was made to keep the children safe. For the few it may save, this will take a toll on thousands. This negates the influence of fear, shame, and parental control and reprimands. These were the conditions that deterred children from sex.

Most children of eleven or twelve don't think of having intercourse until a later time. That was until the news spread it's OK, it's expected for children to have sex. They can hear and feel the change of thinking in regard to sex. Parents who were dead against sexual involvement are weakening. I hear so many parents saying, "It's better to be safe than sorry."

In some schools they will provide condoms as well as birth control pills without the permission of the parents. If a problem arises from taking the pill the parent will never know. Doctors are not allowed to tell parents because of a confidential ruling. Parents are losing their rights to raise their own children. Privacy, intimacy and moral teachings are being turned over to Government officials.

Why was youth sex less of a problem in the older days? Every thing they heard was a taboo on sexual involvement. Children knew their parents would be devastated and angry if sex were to happen. Sexual involvement exacted a high price for children. Shame, rejection, and punishment were their cross to bear. I'm sure this at times went to extremes. Different forms of thinking have its good and bad consequences. The injustices of a few can't be compared to this generation of misled children. They no longer have guidelines to decency. They are now sexually sophisticated before their time.

Religious indoctrination gave balance and direction to the child. Children were exposed to God and His moral teachings. This helped many children to live better lives. Now God is not to be mentioned in a public facility. The Word God has been put in the same category as profanity. It is not acceptable, only at certain times. The word God is not to be read or mentioned in a public facility.

All the deterrents that helped children live a good moral life are being taken away. It seems that everyone is making it easier and more comfortable for the young to become sexually involved. Little emphasis is put on the horrors of venereal diseases. Gonorrhea, syphilis, A.I.D.S., and genital herpes are never mentioned to the same extent as condoms, and birth control pills. The pain, suffering, and life threatening facts are pushed aside to teach safe sex. I shudder when I hear the TV advertisement about genital herpes. They make it seem as if herpes is like having a common cold. It's incurable, highly contagious; yet they show two lovers happily involved knowing that the disease could be passed on to their partner. In reality most individuals would never get sexually involved with someone if they knew the man or woman had this disease. If they did get involved they would live in constant fear and uncertainty. Only these poor souls who have contracted the disease know the true pain and suffering. Most children have heard of these diseases. They, however, can identify with the love and the romance. Movies, TV and the media only glorify the beauty of sex. The negative aspects of sex are mentioned but rarely to the extent of their true impact on people's lives.

Parents are needed more than ever to explain all aspects of sexual involvement. Government and schools could be falling short of explaining the possible pain and suffering of sexual involvement. Parents can't afford to depend on anyone but themselves to explain the beauty as well as the horrors of sex.

Important points overlooked

Dear Editor,

I submit this letter based on the joint meeting at the last Board of Selectmen with the Wilmington Planning Board per my request. In all of my 18 years as a member of the Board of Selectmen, this is the first time I've ever asked the Planning Board to come in to explain a vote. The topic of discussion was the new location of the Registry of Motor Vehicles being located in the Channel Building off Rte. 62, North Wilmington. I don't expect the writer of the article to write everything I say, however, a couple important points were overlooked.

First of all, I stated that I have no problem with the Registry of Motor Vehicles locating somewhere suitable in the Town of Wilmington. I also have no problem with the land owner developing his or her property according to the zoning bylaws. My biggest problem is that the location of the registry is not in a suitable area and the Wilmington Planning Board failed to acknowledge that. What's most upsetting is that the Wilmington Planning Board did not even request that the land owner do a traffic study pertaining to all his new tenants that will be locating there including the biggest tenant, the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

The Planning Board Director Carole Hamilton and the Chairman of the Planning Board, Michael Sorrentino stated that they didn't believe a traffic study was necessary and that if one were needed, they would request a traffic study when further development comes in. To me, that makes no sense of all. The biggest tenant is the Registry of Motor Vehicles and there is no doubt in my mind that the Registry is perhaps one of the busiest state agencies in the commonwealth.

Mr. Sorrentino said that the Planning Board is made up of professional people—two attorneys, one architect and one engineer and that he based his opinion on site plan review. I am not disputing their professionalism, however, I'm not going to base my opinion on site plan review—I'm going to base my decision on common sense and my common sense tells me that this is a disaster waiting to happen.

A very basic point was asked by a resident in the audience: Did the Planning Board contact the registry and ask what is the basic people count at the RMV on any given day? Neither Planning Board Director Hamilton nor Chairman Sorrentino ever asked the question.

In closing, Planning Board Director Carole Hamilton stated that "we can't vote against site plan review." I respectfully disagree with her being a former member of the Planning Board, myself. According to the Planning Board handbook, the Planning Board must protect the safety and well being of its inhabitants in the Town of Wilmington. You blew it guys. Long after we're gone, the RMV will still be here. An interesting statement that Mr.

Sorrentino did bring up was that he is a professional, he loves the Town of Wilmington, he doesn't get paid for being on the Planning Board where he spends a lot of time and he's not elected. I agree with him. However, maybe he and members of the Planning Board SHOULD be elected rather than appointed. After some of the Planning Board votes and votes of other various boards in this community that have gone against the will of the residents—are appointed, not elected. Being an elected official, myself, if I make a vote you're not happy with, you have the opportunity to vote me out. I think it's high time those positions need to be elected because I believe elected officials are more accountable for their actions than somebody who needs only to answer to the individual who appoints them.

Shawsheen Tech adds interviews to admission process

BILLERICA - As the director of guidance and admissions at Shawsheen Valley Tech, Christine Shaw welcomes hundreds of excellent candidates to the school every year.

But Shaw realizes that hundreds of others will not make the cut.

In the past, Shawsheen Tech has used four criteria to judge its prospective students including attendance, academics, discipline and conduct, and the recommendation of guidance counselors. The categories are based on a student's career in the seventh grade and two terms of the eighth grade.

Now, the school has added a fifth category - an interview process - to the admissions process.

"We have so many students that want to come here now," said Superintendent-Director Charles Lyons. "We're up to more than 600 kids applying for 331 seats. We thought it was time to modernize our admissions process so that students, through an interview process, can demonstrate their serious intent about coming here."

"We're excited to give the kids a voice," said Shaw. "With such an incredible amount of applicants, we took a critical look at the admissions process and we wanted to make sure that the students are given the opportunity to show themselves in the best way possible."

Eighth grade students will all be asked the same six questions.

"The questions will be about why they want to come to Shawsheen Tech, what they're excited about and how Shawsheen Tech can be part of helping them achieve their goals," Shaw said. "We want to make sure it's a good match."

"When you have a process that is based strictly on grades and attendance, you might have that student that is deeply committed to coming in and becoming a carpenter or an electrician or a plumber and that's his or her entire life's goal," said Lyons. "This is an opportunity for that student to communicate with us and it will be a very objective process."

The school will be using experienced interviewers to ask the questions and score the results according to the Rubric System.

"We want to give everyone a fair and equal chance," Shaw said. "A technical education is very challenging. In actuality, there are all of the academic programs that there are at a standard high school and on top of that we expect students to learn a profession in a trade or a technical area."

"These students are going to be given an opportunity to explain to us why they want to come to Shawsheen Tech and why it's important for them to be here," said Lyons. "We think it shows a level of maturity among eighth grade students and it's a message to seventh grade students that their behavior and their attendance patterns are something we look at."

Applications are required to be completed on Feb. 1.

"So many students want to come here that we want to have the process done by then," said Lyons.

"We are already receiving applications," added Shaw.

Applications are attainable in several different ways including online and at every middle school guidance counselor's office in the Shawsheen Tech enrollment area. The school is hosting an open house on Sunday, Nov. 4 and an eighth grade Career Night in January.

Let's Hear it!! Your Two Cents...

To the person or persons that use the Wildwood School playground to walk their dog(s) ... Please be kind enough to pick up after your dog when he does he business. The children who attend the school play outside each day (barring rain) and they are running through your dogs poop. Teachers should not have to help kids remove their sneakers and then wash them off before they can come into the building. It is also not the responsibility of the school custodian to pick up after your dog. A concerned parent.

Wilmington

I saw the Wilmington fire fighters working hard at a house fire on Wildwood Street the other night. Those guys don't hear it enough: thanks for being there when we need you!!!

McCoy versus this, McCoy versus that, McCoy versus everything not suggested by him, planned by him, implemented by him, completed by him, is always wrong. Give me a break.

Wilmington

Suzanne Sullivan's use of the word "reprimand" is so appropriate. It's exactly what she did to everyone from the day she took office until the day Wilmington voters said, "We've had enough." Please, Suzanne, do what Lt. Gov. Healey did when asked to leave - leave.

Winchester Hospital recognized for excellence

WINCHESTER — Winchester Hospital has been honored by the Premier healthcare alliance with the 2007 Premier/CareScience Select Practice National Quality Award for superior patient outcomes in both quality and efficiency of care. Winchester Hospital is one of 49 hospitals nationally, the top 1 percent of acute inpatient care facilities, recognized with the Select Practice Award. More than 4,700 acute inpatient care facilities in the United States were eligible to receive the award.

"We are pleased to recognize this elite group of hospitals from across the nation," said Richard A Bankowitz, MD, MBA, FACP, vice president and medical director for Premier Healthcare Informatics. "These hospitals represent the country's elite healthcare facilities for patient care based on performance using objective measures of clinical outcomes and efficiencies."

As a recipient of the 2007 Select Practice National Quality Award, Winchester Hospital achieved superior performance in care of patients, as identified by the Premier/CareScience Select Practice methodology. Winchester Hospital did not apply for the award, but instead was identified as a top performer in quality and efficiency among all acute care facilities in the MED-PAR 2005 data, regardless of bed size or teaching status.

"This honor reflects the quality care that our physicians, nurses and other staff provide daily to our patients," said Dale Lodge, president and chief executive officer of Winchester Hospital. "We commend them all for their dedication to making certain that our patients receive excellent, compassionate care."

Select Practice data includes 16 different clinically relevant indicators of risk, more than any other national quality award or designation. The quality index is calculated by combining the outcome deviations for mortality, morbidity and complications into a single quality measure for each facility. The combined quality and efficiency ratings are used to determine the award recipients.

Red Sox fan Mike has got a bat-on

WHEN the Boston Red Sox won baseball's World Series, Mike Kean-Price was over the moon.

But Tewkesbury's town crier soon came back to earth when he discovered nobody else seemed to care.

Having stayed up all night on Sunday watching his beloved team win the sport's top prize, Mr Kean-Price wanted to shout it from the roof tops.

But his wife Linda had long since gone to bed and he couldn't think of anyone else who would be interested.

He was so deflated when he realised no one else in Tewkesbury seemed to care that he decided to make a public appeal.

The man best known for bellowing out 'oyez, oyez' in the town centre wants anyone who shares his passion for baseball, and particularly the Boston Red Sox, to give him a shout.

And he also wants people in Tewkesbury to broaden the range of sports they're interested in.

He said: "I got the bug in 2000 when I first visited Tewksbury, Massachusetts. It's only about 22 miles from the centre of Boston."

BASEBALL GLORY: Mike Kean-Price. Inset, Red Sox pitcher Curt Schilling

The official Town Crier of Tewkesbury, England - a good friend of the Wilmington/Tewksbury Town Crier newspaper, got some ink in today's Gloucestershire Echo (England) for his love of the Boston Red Sox - a love that began with his trip to Tewksbury, MA in 2000.

Frank B. Enos

Owned Frank's Market; served his country with Coast Guard and Watertown Arsenal

WILMINGTON - Frank B. Enos, age 92 years, of Wilmington, formerly of Cambridge, passed away peacefully on October 29, 2007, while in the presence of his family.

Born February 19, 1915, to Margarita and Peter Enos, into a musical family, his specialty was his well-tuned voice. He began using his talent early by singing in the choir of St. Anthony's Church in Cambridge and also singing actively in church plays, traveling throughout the area to perform. At one point, he was singing in local nightclubs and had the opportunity to also perform at clubs in New Jersey. However it was at this time that he met his wife of nearly 70 years, Mabel Gouvea. They were married in 1937 and from Somerville and Everett, moved to Wilmington in 1953.

It was in Wilmington that he lived happily for 54 years. In those days, Wilmington seemed a long distance from Cambridge, but Frank and his family continued a faithful relationship with St. Anthony's Church for many years until it became more practical, as his children grew, to join his local church, St. Thomas of Villanova in Wilmington.

When Frank started out in married life, he owned and operated "Frank's Market" on Beacon Street in Somerville as a meat-cutter selling only the finest quality meat; it was a business he loved while meeting and enjoying so many people in the community. He then was recruited to work for the Government at the Watertown Arsenal, as a Machinist in Research and Development.

During this time, Frank's patriotism beckoned as World War II escalated and he attempted to join the Navy in service to his country. However, as he was already a Government employee, he was not allowed to do so, but instead, satisfied his need to serve by being allowed to join the Coast Guard Reserve, which he did proudly in the 1940's.

Frank continued his employment with the Watertown Arsenal until it was closed in the 1960's. He then became a member of the Research & Development Team at Itel, Inc. in Burlington, MA where he worked on the space shuttles for Cape Canaveral. He was recognized and decorated for his diligent and expert work in this area and as a self-made man remained proud of his accomplishments both in his career, his service in the Coast Guard and his personal life; building his own home and always putting his family's needs first above his own. He was a man who could build anything, repair anything and take care of everyone, even his elderly neighbors.

In his retirement, Frank and Mabel enjoyed many, many vacations and trips to places such as Bermuda, Florida, Spain, Portugal and especially the 10 trips they so loved to his very favorite destination, Hawaii. They also joined the Methuen Senior Center and the Rainbow Club, living a very active and healthy retirement, where they and their friends traveled on many more trips and danced to their hearts' content, sometimes 4-5 nights a week.

He was a devoted and loyal husband to, and will be greatly missed by, Mabel Enos; he was a wonderful caring and nurturing father to Sandra Conwell of Wilmington and Frances Bowers of Florida, both of whom will miss him enormously; also Joanne Spinelli. He adored his grand-daughters, Kimberly Morin and Lisa Melanson, finding special happiness in his great, grand-children as 'Grampy' to Bradley and Danielle and 'Boppy' to Marisa.

Wilmington Rec. Dept has A Christmas Carol tickets

WILMINGTON - New England's brightest holiday tradition continues in its 19th year. With dazzling special effects that have grown even more exciting over time, traditional and original songs, and colorful costumes, A Christmas Carol at the North Shore Music Theatre has become a holiday favorite throughout New England.

Based on the Charles Dickens classic, A Christmas Carol tells the tale of curmudgeonly miser Ebenezer Scrooge, who is visited by the ghosts of Christmases Past, Present and Future hoping to change his destiny and save his soul. This brilliant musical follows Scrooge through a series of strange and magical journeys, where he ultimately discovers the true spirit of the holiday season.

Keep your mail carrier safe this fall season

"Many Town Crier readers may argue that autumn is the best of our four seasons. The beautiful colors of the leaves inspire us to seek out the best vantage points to view the dazzling tapestry. And while we all agree that leaves are beautiful on trees, once they fall, they can become a hazard when left on walkways, driveways or porches," said Postmasters Charles T. "Chuck" Nichols, Wilmington, and Joanna M. Louf, Tewksbury.

"During the winter months, you are diligent at removing snow around mail boxes and walk areas. On behalf of the service workers and guests visiting your home, we hope you will make the same effort at clearing leaves from the passage ways leading to your doors and mailbox," they said.

They said leaves that look dry can hold moisture underneath, making them slippery over concrete, blacktop or a wooden structure, like a porch. By keeping these areas clear of leaves, you will lessen the chance of someone slipping and possibly being injured.

"Thank you for your cooperation as we look to keep your postal carrier out of harm's way. We welcome our daily visit to your home and look forward to another safe season of serving you," they said.

Sugarland Farm launches new pony party business

Mother of two, horse owner of six -Salina Chandler and her pony, Sir Willy, are always the hit of the party!

IPSWICH - Pony party anyone? Salina Chandler a full time horse lover, recently decided it was time to launch the business she has been thinking about for years. Her first mission was to get her new farm, Sugarland (located on 70 Linebrook Road) up to par. She just finished a major barn renovation to make the home of her six horses and many other animals that much more comfortable.

Her newest addition to the family is Rubino - an ex-race horse (a very good one we may add) who has a sparkling personality - who needed a place to enjoy life off the track. He is a 16-hand dapple grey thoroughbred that Salina quickly found a place in her heart for. Having grown up in racing with her dad, so she knows her stuff. He shares his home with a couple other ex-racers Freedom and Seamus.

Willie is a 15 year Newfoundland white pony that enjoys his new line of work - making kids (and big kids - "parents") very happy on their special day. Salina heads out to your home or event site in her newly refurbished pony trailer painted with her fun PONY PARTY graphics! You may see her around town - so wave Hello!

"It's a fun business and there is nothing like seeing the kids faces when Willy shows up at their party! Willie is so sweet and good natured," says Chandler. Bronwin (Salina's horse crazy 8 year old and Willie's owner) often goes to assist her Mom at events. Ye another reason this new business fits into Salina's busy lifestyle.

Pricing starts at $150 per party and the fun lasts until Salina is sure everyone is happy. Travel is billed separate and is dependent on mileage. Target pony party destinations are within Essex County.

About Sugarland Farm
Sugarland - So, have you ever seen a goose act as a guard dog for a farm before? Well, you will here. You will be greeted by "Goose" (yes, that is his name) - who likes to share his bed each night with Owen, the shaggy gold dog. This farm is nestled on two acres of land. Salina is an active member of Overlook pony club and is currently in the process of becoming re-certified as a horse instructor.

Availability: Weekdays or weekends. Contact Salina Chandler at 978.356.1890 to learn more or email poniesrus1890@yahoo.com. Her calendar is booking fast, so plan early and get ready to make wonderful memories!

National Merit Commended Student

MALDEN - Stephen Allen, son of James and Carolyn Allen of Wilmington, a senior at Malden Catholic High School, has been recognized as a National Merit Commended Student by the 2008 National Merit Scholarship Program. National Merit Commended students are chosen based on their scores on the Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). Nationwide, more than 1.4 million students enter the National Merit Scholarship Program and only some 50,000 high scoring students qualify for recognition. "Malden Catholic strives to enable every student to reach his full potential," said Thomas P. Arria, Malden Catholic Headmaster. "Stephen has distinguished himself through discipline and scholarship. We congratulate him on receiving national recognition of his outstanding academic promise."

Rep. Tsongas strongly supports bill to expand children's health insurance

WASHINGTON - Fifth District Representative Niki Tsongas today supported a revised version of the bill to expand the Children's Health Insurance Program that will secure health care coverage for 10 million children, including coverage for more than 200,000 children in Massachusetts.

"I was sworn in one week ago after being elected by tens of thousands of people who want to make sure that all of our children have health insurance," said Rep. Tsongas. "On that day, I began my service to the Fifth District by voting to override President Bush's veto of a children's health care bill that had overwhelming bipartisan support. While the Congress was unable to override the President's veto, the Fifth District's message has been heard, and today I again voted with a bipartisan majority of the House of Representatives to expand the children's health insurance program. Every concern that the President has brought up has been clearly addressed in this bill, but he has still threatened to veto this revised version. I stand with a strong bipartisan majority ready to overturn this veto and give millions of children a chance at a healthy, safe future. I urge the President to sign this bill."

The original children's health insurance expansion bill that President Bush vetoed was clear on what children could be enrolled in the program, the fact that undocumented immigrants were not eligible to receive benefits, and that adults receiving benefits were to be phased out. Today's bill is even clearer on those points:

The revised bill further clarifies that the legislation is focused on enrolling low-income children. Under the revised bill, SCHIP coverage will be capped at 300 percent of poverty.

The bill further clarifies that the legislation does not allow undocumented workers to get SCHIP. Under the revised bill, if the Social Security Administration cannot confirm an applicant's citizenship, the applicant will be required to provide the state with additional documentation to confirm eligibility.

The revised bill further clarifies that the legislation is focused on prioritizing children's coverage and phasing out adults. Whereas under the original bill, childless adults are phased out over two years, under the revised bill they are phased out over one year.

Maura Kilbride—Special Education Teacher at WMS

From our Wilmington Middle School Correspondent...

By CHRISTINA PRICE

WILMINGTON - Special education has changed over the years. Today, it's a team effort of teachers and students working together to help all involved to understand who they are and what capabilities they have in a school setting.

Maura Kilbride, a sixth grade special needs teacher at the Wilmington Middle School who has been a teacher for 22 years, believes that all children have special abilities. "All students have special gifts," said Kilbride, "and they just have to learn to open these gifts to see who they are in school and life."

Kilbride joins other teachers in the classrooms to give students the skills needed to learn how to open these gifts. "Teaching, as a whole," said Kilbride, "is a collaborative effort between teachers and students. We all have a job to do and we need the support from all involved in the educational process. When I'm in a classroom, the regular education teacher and I become a team to ensure that all students are receiving the attention they need to have a full learning experience. Finally, the students themselves have to be a part of the team and become their own advocates in the learning process."

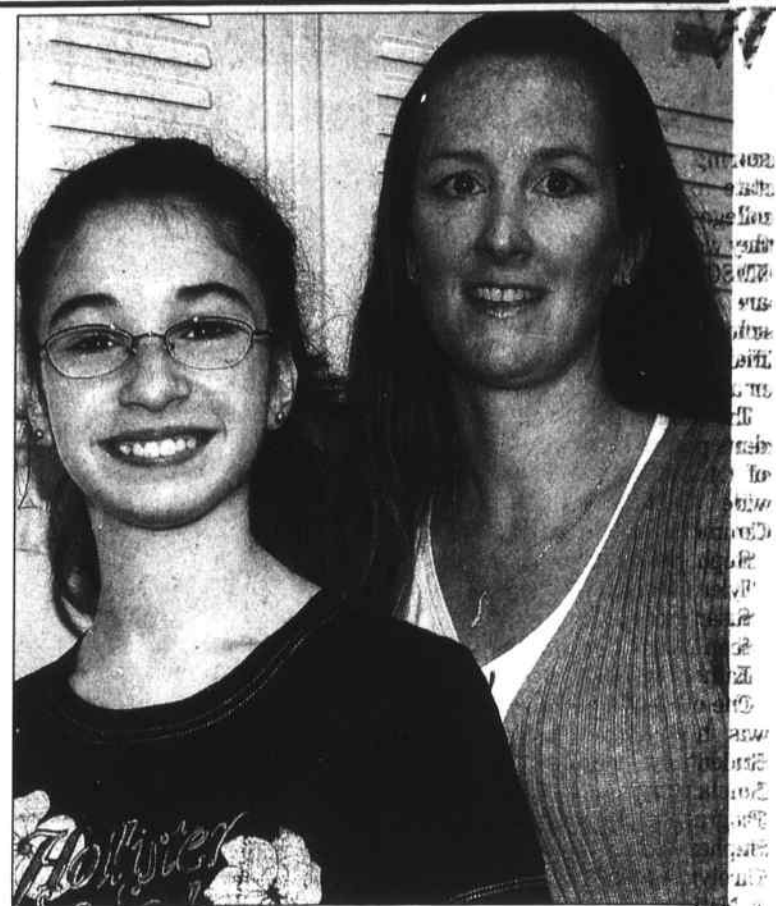

During a typical day at school, Kilbride's day is fast paced helping students develop the skills needed to succeed. "Although there are no typical days in education, my main goal on a daily basis is to try to offer each student the help to become the best student they can be in school and in life," said Kilbride. "Some days are better than others, but most days are rewarding because I can see the progress the students are achieving. These achievements lead to the type of confidence that allows students to move past the special needs program and into the mainstream of school."

Kilbride became inspired to become a special education teacher when she was nine years old at a school on the south shore. "In my elementary school, there was a girl named Faith who was in the special needs program. She touched my heart because I found it inspiring that a girl named Faith would be part of a program that requires much faith. "Believing in your abilities and having faith in yourself are two key elements I always try to emphasize in the classroom," said Kilbride.

Christina Price is a sixth grader in Discovery House at the Wilmington Middle School. Christina is the latest student to take advantage of a Town Crier correspondence program initiated by Wilmington Middle School teacher Michael Mahoney and enthusiastically agreed to by the Town Crier. This program allows students the opportunity to have their news articles published in the newspaper. We look forward to bringing our readers installments of the series, in which Wilmington students in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades will report on the news of the day. Students interested in participating are encouraged to contact Mr. Mahoney in Room 125.

the symptoms of an infection due to staph are the same. Pimples, rashes, pus-filled boils, especially when warm, painful, red or swollen, can mean that you have a staph skin infection. Staph can also cause more serious infections such as severe skin infection, surgical wound infections, bloodstream infections, and pneumonia. The symptoms could include high fever, swelling, heat and pain around a wound, headache, fatigue, and others. These infections can be very serious.

According to a question and answer publication put out by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, staph is spread by direct skin-to-skin contact such as shaking hands or wrestling, but can also be spread by indirect contact such as sharing a towel or sharing athletic equipment with an infected person.

DPH statistics state that 25-30 percent of the population carries staph on their skin or in their nose. Many healthy people carry staph without ever having skin infections or any other signs of illness.

There have been three separate recent cases of MRSA diagnosed in Massachusetts and one in New Hampshire. In the one closest to this area, 85 members of the Winchester High School Football team were checked the week of October 20th for pimples, rashes or pus-filled boils after Winchester Hospital diagnosed one football player with MRSA. Locker rooms and equipment were thoroughly cleaned and no further cases have been diagnosed at this time.

Wilmington Superintendent Joanne Benton said it was Nurse Leader Doreen Crowe who first informed Benton of this potentially deadly staph infection in September. Benton commended Crowe's proactive stand on this issue.

Wilmington Public Schools have distributed handouts from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Posters are hanging in locker rooms and offices and have photos depicting the symptoms to watch for to recognize MRSA. All staff members, especially athletic staff, have been notified of warning signs, guidelines and protocols.

At a recent School Committee meeting where members discussed MRSA, Student Representative Matthew Williams told the School Committee that earlier that day the high school football team had been spoken to by the trainer who also showed pictures of what to watch for. The trainer told the team that she would be available to answer any questions they may have about MRSA.

"We're being proactive to educate the community and the students," said Superintendent Benton.

Meanwhile, according to Tewksbury Public School Superintendent Christine McGrath, Tewksbury is following a similar proactive path. She identified the 'point person' for Tewksbury Public Schools as John F. Ryan Elementary School Nurse Marcia Oysterman.

Oysterman indicated that they have followed all of the guidelines dictated by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. They printed out informational packages for all of the school nurses, the Athletic Director, and the Extended Day Director.

Oysterman also said that this is not a new issue, as the staph infection has been around for a while, but due to increased information, awareness, diagnosis, and an increase in the overuse of antibiotics in our society, there are increases in MRSA reportings. She said that last year there were posters in the high school and notices that went out regarding MRSA.

Oysterman emphasized the most important things that can be done to protect from MRSA are frequent hand washing with soap and water and also to keep any open wounds covered until they are completely healed.

For more information about MRSA, visit the Massachusetts Department of Public Health website at www.mass.gov/dph.

Reflections on an everchanging world

Wilmington, as it existed almost a half century ago.

Ann Latta was born in Newfoundland, Canada on October 22, 1919. When Latta's mother passed away at the age of 49, an aunt brought Latta to her home in Newton, MA. There, as a young woman, Latta earned her citizenship papers and eventually met and married her beloved husband Henry.

The early years were tough and Latta described the conditions that were all too typical for many families in the 1930s.

"I lived in Somerville during the Great Depression," recalled Latta. "We had to wash ourselves in the kitchen sink. We had no heat and no running water. We had a furnace but the landlord wouldn't hook it up. He was afraid it would burn the place down. He used to hide his money in the furnace room because he didn't trust the banks."

"Those years were tough. We had a family friend who was a pretty successful fisherman," said Latta. "One day he got a call from a friend saying the bank on Broadway was going to shut down because times were so bad. He ran there and by the time he got to the front of the line, they closed the door and went out of business. He lost everything including his life's savings."

During this time, Latta used to walk to the store and line up for over an hour waiting to buy hamburger. Many times, she left empty handed as there was not enough food to go around. Even with ration stamps there was no guarantee that the food would be available.

Eventually things got better, but after the attack on Pearl Harbor life took another twist for the Latta family.

"When World War II came, my husband was sent to California," explained Latta. "He was a Lieutenant Colonel in the Army. It was hard seeing all those young boys shipping out. They came in busloads and they looked like cattle there were so many of them. All those boys were so very young. It was a sad time. They kept coming back wounded. My husband had two brothers killed and one sister who was a nurse wounded in the war."

She continued, "I remember the day the war ended. It was raining in California and everyone was in the street kissing and screaming. There were people who couldn't even walk that were out there celebrating. When the war was over and the boats came in, the sailors were on the top decks and the nurses were on the bottom. There were streamers everywhere just like in New York City. It was a happy, happy day, but not for everyone. There were people who lost loved ones, and that was sad."

Eventually, the Lattas made their way back east, and in 1963 they moved back to Wilmington.

"I remember the town being pretty different back then. There were still some dirt roads and more trees. The trees used to arch over the roads like a canopy," shared Latta. "There weren't many cars back then. You could walk around a lot without traffic. I used to walk with my baby carriage to John Lucci's place. There was a hairdresser over there. I used to walk there everyday because I was so bored. There wasn't much to do in town back in those days."

"Back then you had to pick up your mail at the post office because there was no home delivery service," Latta reminisced. "There was no water on our street, so we had to use a pump. The town was different then because there were more farms. I remember the Down's farm in town. They had cows and pigs. We used to walk there in the evening. There was a lot more open land back then and plenty of blueberries."

"Everybody was disappointed when the farms were sold and became stores."

Latta's four children - Ellen, Eddie, Jane and Harold, all attended the Wilmington public schools. With the children in school, Latta decided to look for a job.

"I worked at AVCO for 28 years," said Latta. "It was hard when I retired because I like to keep busy. I went back to AVCO part-time and worked in the kitchen making bread pudding. My pudding was quite popular. As soon as I made a batch, it was gone."

Latta still likes to keep busy and is a regular visitor at the Buzzell Senior Center where she also teaches sewing classes.

"I couldn't stay home. I had to have something to do," explained Latta. "One day I tried the sewing room and made mittens and quilts. The items sold at our fair. They call me the Doll Lady, because I pick up dolls and sew little outfits for them at the fair."

As our interview came to a close, Latta shared her secret of living a long and happy life. "It's getting out every day. I've always kept busy. I couldn't just sit down and watch television."

Undoubtedly, Mary DiGirolamo would agree with that philosophy. At 99 years old, she attends weekly AIM meetings and frequents the senior center every other day.

Born on October 23, 1908 in East Boston, DiGirolamo was one of nine siblings - three brothers and six sisters. Her earliest memories include jumping rope and playing Ring Around the Rosie with friends in the old neighborhood.

In 1925, at the age of 17, DiGirolamo joined Schrafft's Chocolate Factory in Boston.

"I worked for many years at Schrafft's. I started there as a chocolate dipper and then I worked as a packer on the belt," recalled DiGirolamo. "I liked it. I stayed there a long time."

During World War II, DiGirolamo worked in the Charlestown Navy Yard as a polisher and buffer. "We worked on things like the silverware and ashtrays. I worked there through the war years and until six months after the war ended."

She continued, "My brother Don fought in World War II in Japan and France. Thank God he came back in good health. He was jubilant when the war ended, but also sad because a lot of people we knew didn't come home."

In 1958, Mary wedded her beloved husband Ernest.

"I moved to Wilmington in 1958 when I got married to my husband Ernest," said DiGirolamo. "He was an auto mechanic and a friend of the family. He lived in Wilmington so when we got married we moved there."

"I was 50 years old when I got married, so I was an old maid," added DiGirolamo.

When asked what Wilmington was like nearly half a century ago, DiGirolamo replied, "It was pretty much like it is now. My favorite thing about Wilmington has always been the people. They're wonderful."

DiGirolamo is active in the senior community.

"I like to be with other people," said DiGirolamo. "They've been wonderful to me."

So Mary, what's the secret to living a long and happy life? "I think it's a blessing I got from God," explained DiGirolamo. "God willing, I'll be here next year to celebrate my 100th birthday."

We all look forward to celebrating that with you, Mary.

Two of the five NMS recognized Wilmington High School students, Katherine Stevenson and Tyler Calway, were also recognized as MASS award recipients. Benton said that one of the proudest pieces of being Superintendent is that she chooses and presents to the two selected students. This is an award based not only on academics, but is awarded to a well-rounded student who is an active member of the school community. Wilmington qualifies for two awards based on enrollment numbers.

Benton and the School Committee invited Stevenson and Calway to attend a School Committee meeting with their families to receive their MASS awards. As each student came forward to accept the award, Benton detailed their many achievements, both in and out of the classroom.

"Katherine Stevenson has been an amazing student in her years here at Wilmington High School," said Benton.

Stevenson has accomplished much academically, beginning with winning the President's Academic Excellence Award in her freshman year. Benton said that Stevenson has taken a rigorous academic path with Honors classes and moving on to Advanced Placement classes in her junior year.

In addition to her many academic achievements, Stevenson is a talented violinist who has performed with Strings Attached for four years, even traveling with the group for various overseas performances. She also put together her own stringed quartet to perform at venues such as weddings and the Wilmington Apple Festival.

Stevenson is also involved in many clubs and activities in the school community. She is president of the Foreign Language Club and team captain for the Wilmington High School Mathletes. She also participates in the Drama Club, and the Model UN.

At the School Committee meeting, Benton asked Stevenson to reveal a previously hidden talent - Stevenson is a competitive target shooter!

Benton said, "Kate has fully embraced her high school career to get as much out of it as she can so that she can move to the next level as prepared as possible."

"Tyler Calway has constantly displayed the qualities of being a true scholar by being resourceful, thorough, self-motivated, and creative. Tyler has a true dedication to learning," said Benton.

Calway performed exceptionally well in his Honors and Advanced Placement curriculum. He has earned Academic Excellence Awards in Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies and has held the highest class averages in those disciplines. He received the AP Scholar Award and also Letter of Commendation for his outstanding performance on the PSAT/NMSQT in 2006. He also placed first in the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority writing contest.

Outside of the classroom, Benton describes Calway as a talented athlete who is involved with cross country, winter track and spring track. He has been involved with Bread and Roses, Students Against Destructive Decisions, and is a member of the Math League and the National Honor Society.

Calway has worked at College Gate, a non-profit organization offering classroom-based academic summer enrichment programs for students.

In his free time, Calway also plays guitar, although Benton laughed when referring to his 'free time' and said, "I don't know where he finds it!"

Benton said that these awards are presented in the fall so that students can utilize them in their college applications. Stevenson plans to apply to Williams College in Williamstown, MA and may major in math. Calway hopes to study math or physics in college.

Caira echoed Newhouse's sentiment, and praised the City of Woburn and the contractor, F&J, Inc. of Ludlow, MA.

"The Mayor of Woburn and the Woburn City Council have been very cooperative during the whole project," Caira said. "The communities were well-served with (F&J, Inc.). They have a strong work ethic and they met every challenge."

McLaughlin was likewise pleased with the working relationship between the two communities and with the performance of the contractor.

"It has been a very cooperative relationship," McLaughlin said. "Things went without a hitch. When you take into consideration that this is a densely populated intersection, the success of the project is a credit to the contractor, the City of Woburn, and the Town of Wilmington."

The connections will be made over the next several weeks, but Woods does not expect to utilize the source until next spring or summer.

According to Wilmington's current agreement with MWRA, the Town may only use MWRA water through an Emergency Declaration. Wilmington's current declaration expires on November 2nd.

Wilmington will continue to rely on its in-town wells throughout the rest of the fall and winter. If an emergency situation was to occur, an Emergency Declaration can be obtained within three or four days.

"This is the culmination of many years of work toward an MWRA connection, which is important for many reasons," Woods said. "The completion of this project will help reduce the stress on the Ipswich River Watershed during the summer months."

The move toward connecting to the MWRA as a supplemental water source has been in the works for a number of years. The community first identified such a need in 1996. The engineering firm of SEA Consultants was engaged by the town from 2001 to 2003 to identify potential pipeline routes.

With the February 2003 discovery of N-nitrosodimethylamine (NDMA) in the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer, SEA began designing the emergency pipeline connection to the MWRA as a permanent connection. NDMA, and a host of other contaminants are emanating from the Olin Chemical property at 51 Eames Street in Wilmington.

Currently, when water levels are down and emergency water is needed, the town purchases water from neighboring communities. Utilizing MWRA water during peak usage periods in summer months will reduce stress to the Ipswich River Watershed, and should eliminate the town's water shortages.

Olin Chemical is covering the costs for the entire project. Originally in 2003, Olin had agreed to pay up to $3 million for the project construction. However, as the price of oil, steel, diesel fuel and asphalt increased, project estimates were impacted. Olin later agreed to pay up to $4.5 million.

The Town is currently discussing the prospect of Olin covering the substantial costs associated with becoming a member community with MWRA.

Once the town is connected to MWRA, Woods expects some of the watering bans to be lifted. Though unrestricted watering of lawns will never be seen again in Wilmington, and will likely become a thing of the past throughout the state, it is likely that residents will be permitted to water their lawns and gardens - so long as they adhere to a schedule outlined by the town - once the MWRA connection is made.

when firefighters arrived, so the priority was to contain the fire away from the second and third floors," said Wilmington Fire Chief Daniel Stewart.

Flames were knocked down within 15 minutes, but firefighters remained on the scene for the rest of the evening dealing with hotspots.

One firefighter fell on a set of stairs inside the house, and a second firefighter suffered from heat exhaustion. Both were treated at the scene.

Investigators have determined that the fire originated in the middle of the house and are working with the State Fire Marshall to determine the cause.

"At this moment in time, the cause of the fire is not considered suspicious, but is undetermined," Stewart said.

Wilmington takes over Spookyworld to expect."

Thus said Lisa Dellascio, younger sibling to Debbie and Alan Dellascio, who together with Angelo Bastolla, have created haunted events for the residents in and around Wilmington and now Boston, for fourteen years.

Debbie and Alan began the adventure in the basement of their parent's Wilmington home in 1993, creating a haunted house for friends and family to walk through during the family Halloween party. Pretty soon those neighbors and friends started bringing their own friends, asking the kids, 19 and 21 at the time, to stage a performance any given weekend through the month of October.

The family opened it up to the public every weekend in October, putting a sign in the front yard and having folks enter through the basement.

"When we hit 1,000 people through the house one year, our parents said it was time to take back the basement. That's when Debbie and Alan took the show on the road," said Lisa.

The family moved around to different venues, a local camp, a New Hampshire location, before operating the Livingston Street Terror in Tewksbury from 1999 to 2005. In 2006, the family took a year off, but could not bear to be away from an activity they thought about all year long.

This year the group hooked up with Spookyworld through a photographer well placed in the industry that knows the owners of Boston's best-known haunted happening. Spookyworld, this year located at the Bayside Expo Center, brought the clan on board giving them one of the five 'haunted houses' available, Jekyll's Mansion.

Using their varied expertise the group constructed and designed the twelve rooms and hallways of Jekyll's Mansion in the 2 1/2 weeks prior to October. Working in their parent's Wilmington backyard, possibly spooking the neighbors, the crew built everything before transporting it to the Bayside Expo Center for set up.

"We all took some vacation time," said Lisa, who like the rest of her family, holds a regular daytime job and shoeboxes her passion for building these sets into her life.

Each member of the team has his/her own area of expertise and thus, they tend to work very well together. "We each seem to have a different piece of the puzzle to get everything done."

Debbie specializes in costumes for the actors and fake creatures as well as the finishing touches on the scenes. "She is very much into details which always makes the scenes just perfect," says Lisa.

Alan, "the artistic one," paints all the murals or scenes and possesses an inherent understanding of what scares people. He also pulls Monster Duty during the weekends.

Angelo is the heavy lift, literally. He is the one they all turn to for the construction work.

"He can build just about anything that we ask for (ramps, benches, ladders, etc) and he too does a great job as one of our 'monsters' inside the house," raves Lisa.

Lisa, the scaredy-cat, likes to come up with ideas for the scenes just by imagining what might scare her and incorporating it into the house. Additionally, Lisa paints scenes and preps them for Debbie's final changes. Lisa also greets visitors, telling them the rules and regulating the flow of traffic into the maze. Sister Debbie handles emergency repairs.

Lisa and Angelo have helped Debbie and Alan over the last six years. Lisa, Debbie and Alan have two other sisters that also contribute, even though building a haunted house is not their cup of potion. One sister, Sharon, owns Catch the FUNK dance studio in Wakefield where their younger sister Diane teaches and dances. Together with Debi's Dance Studio of Wilmington the group organized a gaggle of 30 dancers, taught them "spooky" dances, and made them intricate costumes to entertain the crowds at Spookyworld.

When it comes to scare philosophy, this group offers a twisted take on traditionally scary themes, keeping technology to a minimum and relying on actors to draw visitors into the experience. They use masks, dummies, fake props, and a lot of clever lighting to distract guests before "hitting them with a startling scare."

They built a façade for Jekyll's Mansion that look like the front doors of a large home, including a fireplace and an organ. Each room or hallway has a difference scene including everything from sinister clowns in polka dot knee socks, knickers, and creepy laughs to pumpkin-head scarecrows towering over visitors. Another stunt has visitors face a long hallway with people standing along the walls. None of them is moving, all eight wearing robes with hoods. One of those figures is real, but no one wants to walk down that hallway at all.

Since they really do like to send folks out screaming, they finished the last room with a graveyard scene including zombies and people popping out of coffins.

The group refuses to use animatronics or sensors, partly because of the prohibitive cost and partly because the barely audible clicks of the devices erodes suspension of disbelief.

"We've had more fun this year than we've ever had. We focused on what we love to do and what we're good at, just building the house. We didn't have to deal with the marketing. It's the greatest things we've done since we started doing haunted houses."

Lisa cites the excellent relationship with Spookyworld as a major factor in making it work between the famous event and the local Wilmington clan. "A lot of those guys have been doing this their entire lives. They helped us out; we can learn so much from them. It was a great combination."

Most of the monsters that staff Jekyll's Mansion in Spookyworld "consist of mostly cousins and friends who have helped us out for many years and have really learned the secrets to scaring people."

Other special talents include the uncle that built four wooden coffins for the graveyard scene. Yup, that's right.

"It's a family affair," quips Lisa. "Every room has a piece of all of us in it."

Another original feature of the place comes via music. No staid or overdone horror flick soundtrack to bore visitors. Instead, they offer never before heard music, composed by family members.

Though Spookyworld is officially closed for the season, reception of Jekyll's Mansion was well done, scaring both kids and adults, even grown men and teenage boys, notorious for hiding their feelings. The group plans to join up with Spookyworld again next year.

Wildcats claim co-championship

The 2007 Wilmington High Boys Soccer team won its first league title this past week, sharing the championship with Masconomet Regional. Boys Soccer team shares CAL title with Masconomet

It's been a crazy up and down week and a half for the Wilmington High boys soccer team. Yet throughout the highs and lows, the Wildcats were crowned co-champions of the Cape Ann League along with Masconomet, the same team the 'Cats beat in dramatics at home nearly two weeks ago.

Wilmington - which had a make up game scheduled against Billerica on Wednesday as this paper was being printed - currently has a 12-1-4 overall record, and finished with its first ever league title of any kind since joining the CAL.

"You don't want to share it but we've never had a piece of it so we'll take it," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "The kids have had a good year and they play in a tough league."

The awards didn't stop there. Scanlon was named the Cape Ann League's Large School Coach of the Year. He has now been a Coach of the Year in three different leagues, dating back to when he coached Westford High and nabbed one in the Mid Wachusett League and then the Dual County League.

In addition to Scanlon, keeper Vinny Papageorgiou was named the CAL Large School Most Valuable Player which is an automatic selection to both the all-star and all-league teams. Teammate Matt Figueiredo was also an all-league selection, and also scored during Sunday's All-Star game. Both seniors Mike Condell and JJ Polcari, a forward and sweeper-back respectively, were named league all-stars.

The past two weeks or so has been pretty weird. The 'Cats started off by defeating Masconomet in the final minutes, 2-1, despite the rain and the lights going out at Alumni Stadium. Four days later the 'Cats faced North Andover and

Papageorgiou: The best keeper in the area

Wilmington High School keeper Vinny Papageorgiou has guided the Wildcats to another post season as well as a share of the Cape Ann League by making saves like this one above and punts like the one to the right during this magical season for the boys soccer team.

As defined by the dictionary, leadership is the ability to have great influence over people. On the soccer field, no one has more influence than Wilmington High School senior Vinny Papageorgiou. The keeper has recently been named the Cape Ann League Large School Most Valuable Player. Perhaps the best goalie this program has ever had - at least in the past 12 years - Papageorgiou was honored and humbled to receive the accolade.

"It's up there (with my other achievements). But it wasn't just me. My team has done a good job in front of me," he said.

Papageorgiou has had a phenomenal career with the Wildcats. He has been the goalie for all four of his years at the High School. This year, Papageorgiou was a tri-captain along with defender J.J. Polcari and midfielder Matt Figueiredo. The keeper helped lead his squad to a 12-1-4 record (with one more game to be played against Billerica) and the program's first ever CAL championship (tied with Masconomet Regional)

"Expectations were high for us to be the team we are now," said Papageorgiou. "We all worked hard."

Papageorgiou has worked just as hard as anyone this past off-season. He attended Mike Boyle's strength and conditioning workouts, in addition to his club team he played for all winter. That training seemed to have helped the 6-foot-1, 185-pound keeper immensely.

"Vinny's a big reason why we are where we are," said head

Nick Figueiredo sets 35-year-old record

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Nick Figueiredo was an soccer All-American last year for Bowdoin College. This year, he made history.

Last week Figueiredo broke the 35-year-old record for most career goals when he scored in Bowdoin's 3-0 victory. That goal gave him 33 for the year.

"I knew going in that I was only seven away (from the record)," he said. "I told myself, 'It would be great if you get it but just take it one step at a time.' My main focus was on the team's record. It ended up happening and it feels great and everything. But now my main focus is helping my team win games."

Bowdoin will play Saturday at Amherst College in the semi-finals of the NESCAC Tournament. The Polar Bears defeated Wesleyan on Sunday to advance, with Figueiredo assisting on the game-winning goal.

Head coach Fran O'Leary has been impressed with how Figueiredo has improved throughout his career at Bowdoin.

"He arrived with a lot of good technical ability," he said. "He had a lot of good position making. Over time he has become physically and mentally stronger. I think that he improved each year with his maturity."

The senior forward currently leads the conference in scoring with nine goals and 11 assists.

The economics major had 12 goals last year and eight goals his sophomore year.

Figueiredo came into Bowdoin as a graduate of St. John's Prep in Danvers. He received Eastern Massachusetts All-Star honors his junior and senior year and was named MVP of the Eastern Massachusetts All-Star Game his senior year.

Figueiredo had his choices of schools in the area to play for, but he said Bowdoin just made the most sense.

"It was a great balance between academics and athletics," he said. "I could play for one of the best programs in New England and possibly the country and get a great education."

Figueiredo isn't one of the team's captains this year, but O'Leary says the senior is a leader in a less vocal matter.

"He's a quiet lad," he said. "He leads by example. I think that's what most coaches like. He plays every minute of every game for us. He takes a lot of punishment and doesn't complain. He brings his best effort to practice everyday and he has a positive personality. He has a great work ethic and as a coach you couldn't ask for any better."

Soccer runs in the Figueiredo family. His younger brother, Matt, is currently starring at Wilmington High and his father, Leo, had an excellent TOPSFIELD — The Wilmington High boys and girls cross country teams competed in the Cape Ann League Championships despite the rain on Saturday morning. The girls finished 9th out of 13 teams, while the boys finished 11th out of 13 teams.

In the girls race, the big highlight came from junior Natalie

Behind Russo was Nikki Sirignano (31st, 21:51), Ali Lyman (34th, 21:58), Lisa Hitchins (48th, 23:18) and Lori Fletcher (51st, 23:22) rounded out the team's top five performers, before Kristi Adley (53rd, 23:45) and Ivy Co (68th, 24:51)

Russo ran her best time in two years with a 20:08 time, followed by Lyman (3rd, 21:42), Sirignano (21:43), Fletcher (23:01), Adley (23:12), Kerri Spry (23:14) and Hitchins (23:25).

"Lori (Fletcher) is running very well again after battling leg problems all season, and Michelle Barnes had a real breakthrough race finishing at 23:27," said head coach Tom Bradley.

As for the boys, Tom Valente was the top performer during Saturday's League Meet finishing 18th overall at 17:51. He was followed by Zach Sears (58th, 19:32), Andrew Marra (63rd, 19:41), Ed Silva (64th, 19:42), Jimmy DiNuccio (67th, 19:44), Sean Keane (85th, 21:26) and Scott Oglesby (90th, 22:53).

As a team, the Wildcats finished with 270 points, as Hamilton-Wenham won the meet with 57 points, followed by Masconomet (67) and Ipswich

Football team improves to 7-1

Wildcats earn their stripes against Tigers

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Two plays into the game and the scoring began. And 8:45 later, the Wildcats had a commanding 21-7 lead at the end of the first quarter and were able to ride out the rest of the game defeating Ipswich, 42-12, in front of the home crowd on Friday night.

Wilmington High senior Ernie Mello scored five touchdowns, while rushing for 126 yards, to lead the offense. Mello has now rushed for 1,432 yards and has scored 25 touchdowns which leads all of Eastern Mass. with his 150 points.

"(Ernie's) having a tremendous year and he deserves everything he gets," said Wildcat coach Bob Almeida. "How many kids have scored that many touchdowns, and how many of them play offense, defense and special teams and don't come off the field? He played a hell of a game. He's just a tremendous all-around football player and I think people are starting to pay attention to that. He's a bright kid so hopefully he'll get to play at the next level."

Evan Butters scored his first varsity touchdown late in the fourth quarter, while, quarterback Kyle Moon was more than efficient, connecting on 6-of-10 passes for 130 yards as the Wildcats chalked up 339 yards of offense.

Wilmington is now 7-1 on the season and have three big match-ups to close the season with North Andover and Pentucket at home on the next two Fridays, before facing a red hot Tewksbury (6-2) team on Thanksgiving morning at Doucette Field.

After Steve Stewart's 38-yard kick-off return put the ball at the Ipswich 48, Moon connected with Evan Borseti for a 42 yard pass putting the ball at the 6. Mello then followed with a 6-yard TD run and Wilmington had a 7-0 lead just 75 seconds into the game.

"It was nice to score just two plays into the game," said Almeida. "It was good to get Kyle rolling right away and I thought he had a good game. I thought the offensive line played really well and Ernie was great again. It was a real, solid offensive performance by us. It seemed like we could run our entire offense as it was all there."

Ipswich stormed right back, scoring a touchdown on just two plays as well. After a one-yard gain, quarterback Zach Gorrell found a wide open Alex Lampropoulos for what turned out to be a 75-yard TD strike. The PAT kick failed and Wilmington had a 7-6 lead with both teams scoring a touchdown just 1:36 into the game.

Wilmington's offense continued to move the ball scoring touchdowns on its next two drives. Mello capped off a 9-play, 51 yard drive scoring on a 2-yard scamper, before he finished off a short 5-play, 42 yard drive scoring from three yards out making it 21-7 with 45 seconds left in the first quarter. Mello then intercepted a ball from his safety position, and then two plays later scored on a 5-yard run which came after Kevin Carter made a sensational 38-yard grab.

But Ipswich put together a very impressive 22-play, drive which took up almost nine minutes on the clock and was polished off when Lampropoulos caught a 14-yard pass from Gorrell making it 28-12 at the halftime break.

Mello and Butters ran in second half touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters, respectively to finish off the team's scoring.

Defensively Wilmington came up with three turnovers, with Mello falling on a fumble, while intercepting a pass, while Butters also picked off a Gorrell pass. Brian Williams and Andrew Cazeau came up with quarterback sacks, while, Kenny Joyce continues to play exceptional football on both sides of the ball.

"Kenny's playing really exceptional right now," said Almeida. "He's meeting all of the challenges that lie ahead. He's just a tough kid who is having a heck of a year for us. He's really coming into his own this year. He's been one of the big, big pleasant surprises for us this year."

Joyce and the rest of his teammates will now have a huge challenge with the likes of three solid teams upcoming starting with North Andover at home this Friday night.

"They are really good," said Almeida. "They are not the same team they were earlier in the season. They are a real good football team right now. I'm looking for that North

Andover-Newburyport score because they are a very good football team. I watched the Pentucket- North Andover game last week and they have really come along way. They are a good team right now - a very, very good team. We have our hands full the next few weeks but we're looking forward about it."

Many locals earn all-star honors

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Cape Ann League announced its all-league and all-star teams from the respective sports, and Wilmington did very well.

Starting with boys soccer where Wilmington was crowned co-champions of the league with Masconomet, Wildcat senior goalie Vinny Papageorgiou was named the go-MVP along with Lynnfield's Mike Kennedy, who won the award by himself last year. Papageorgiou was automatically placed on the all-conference team, while, teammate Matt Figueiredo also was named as one of the 14 best players in the league.

In addition, Mike Condell, JJ Polcari and Carlton Lentini were named as league all-stars. Wildcat head coach Steve Scanlon was named the Co-Coach of the Year earning the honor with Hamilton-Wenham's Matt Gauron. And finally the Wildcats team was awarded the League's Sportsmanship Award.

Turning to girls soccer, junior Charlotte Jensen was named an all-conference player for Wilmington, while, teammates Katie Cole and Leah Potcner, both senior captains, and sophomore sweeper Danielle Polcari were named league all-stars.

In Field Hockey, senior Nicole Engrem was named a Cape Ann League all-star, while, the Wildcats team also received the League's Sportsmanship Award.

And finally in cross country, junior Natalie Russo finished 10th during Saturday's League Championship Meet which is an automatic selection to the Cape Ann League all-league team.

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Brittney McLaughlin, Katie Cole, Charlotte Jensen and Allison Robbins each had a goal, while the Wildcats also had three breakaways and nailed the post during a 4-0 onslaught over Dracut in a non-league girls soccer game played Monday night at Alumni Field.

That win closes out the regular season for Wilmington, who finished at 8-6-4 overall including 5-4-4 within the Cape Ann League. The Wildcats have qualified for the Division 2 North sectional state tournament, with pairings coming out on Thursday.

"We still have a lot that we need to work on but if we play as a team and pull it together and we get balanced scoring, I think we have a shot," said head coach Sue Hendee. "Everyone is going to be pretty even in the tournament. I mean there's Danvers, North Andover, Arlington and Arlington Catholic who all have good records. I think there's four or five teams who have just two or three losses, but I don't honestly know where we'll end up (seed wise)."

Last year Wilmington was defeated in the first round of the state tournament by Belmont, 2-0. Now that the regular season is over, Hendee is quite pleased with the way this season has gone regardless of the outcome of the post season.

"I honestly didn't know what to expect this year because we had so many new kids and being so young," said Hendee. "But these kids worked hard all year long and they have been really great in practice. They have been really eager to learn and work hard in practice. I'm very happy with the way this season has turned out. Not only because of our record but because of their attitudes. They all get along real with each other and they work really hard."

Before the game started, the team recognized its two seniors, Katie Cole and Leah Potcner, for Sr. Night. Cole contributed with a goal and an assist in probably her last game at Alumni Field, while Potcner made a save before coming out midway through the second half to a loud ovation as back-up Jackie Zaremba took over but not before giving Potcner a big hug for her efforts.

Both Potcner and Zaremba weren't too busy as the Wildcats dominated the game from the get-go. In the 10th minute of the game, Cole was at midfield near the left sideline and gave a long pass to the right wing. McLaughlin at first beat the defender down the corner before the two battled for the loose ball. McLaughlin came out from the corner with it and beat the goalie to the far left corner, for what turned out to be the game winning tally.

With ten minutes to go in the first half, Kaitlyn Souza had the ball in the middle of the field and gave a nice pass to Cole down the right side and she deposited her shot to the far right side making it 2-0 at the halftime break.

Jensen made it 3-0 when she scored on a long shot from probably 30 yards out, before Allison Robbins scored on a loose ball from within the '18 yard box after McLaughlin's breakaway shot was saved.

"Once (the girls) figured out that (Dracut) was trying to pull the offside trap, we adjusted and it worked out for us, but we were also called off-sides (many) times," said Hendee. "That's a risky defensive strategy especially when (the opposing team) has (good) speed (like we do). We took advantage of that, and it was nice to see four different girls score. We had plenty of scoring opportunities so that's a plus."

coach Steve Scanlon. "He's a real problem trying to score against. When you're on a team that has that much confidence in your goalie, it can be very valuable. The thing with Vinny is he ends those problems before anything can develop because he takes so many things out of play. Plus he's courageous and he's scary when he's running at you. He's very agile and he has a lot of spring. He punches a lot. He'll be up when you're going for a head ball and he'll be punching the ball out. That's not a comfortable feeling."

Papageorgiou poured his heart and soul into this season with the Wildcats, which explains why he is not surprised that the Wildcats seized a portion of the Cape Ann League crown. This season contained many emotional moments including getting off to a roaring start. Of course the highest point in this season for the Wildcats was their dramatic come from behind, 2-1, win against the Masconomet Chieftains at Alumni Stadium on October 19.

"We didn't have much control over that game in the first half. We squandered a lot of chances. And then, with 21:43 left, I will never forget that number, the lights went out," he said referring to the power outage in Wilmington that rainy night. "We said we were going to win that game, and we did. We outplayed them in the last 21 minutes."

That win virtually cemented the Wildcats a share of the Cape Ann League crown, not to mention having already qualified for the Division 2 North sectional tournament once again. Papageorgiou has already played in two other state tournaments each of the last two seasons. Last year Wilmington was defeated by Stoneham, 3-1, and the year before that as a sophomore, he helped Wilmington defeat Chelsea, before falling to Masconomet in the second round. Papageorgiou said that he plans to use that post season experience to his advantage.

"There's no pressure really," he said. "I think we can do it. We have to come out and play tough the whole game, and we have to go on with confidence. We need to play as a team, communicate, and try to relax and not be so tense."

Being so intimidating with his size, Papageorgiou is extremely quick to both sides of the net. He makes the incredible diving stops, the high punch out saves and comes off his line as good as anyone ever seen in-between the posts. He's getting serious looks from many Division 2 schools and some "casual looks from Division 1 schools" yet throughout all of the accolades and the attention, he hasn't let it get the best of him.

"He's a great kid," said Scanlon. "He's our most talented player and our best player, but he's the most grounded, humbled kid you'll meet. He's a pleasure to coach and he's a real mature kid."

Papageorgiou pointed out on more than one occasion that he didn't do anything alone. Defender Nick Robarge went down midseason with a foot injury, leaving others to fill the void left by the senior. He went on to mention the players who have worked to fill the void, including Andrew Goossens, Colin Wilson and Chris Lavin, among others, who have played solid in that position.

"Basically everybody has gotten in there and we've done a pretty decent job. The whole defense has stepped up," said Papageorgiou.

Besides his incredible talent in-between the posts, Papageorgiou also plays with an unparalleled emotion. Just last week against Tewksbury, he got extremely upset when the game ended in a 2-2 tie. The Redmen scored with three seconds left on a penalty kick that went "right off my hand and into the net," said Papageorgiou. "There were a lot of unlucky events in that game, and they all happened so fast. I was very angry."

But the veteran keeper has regained his focus and his cool in time for the tournament.

"I think we will be fine. We have to work hard and come out playing, we are looking forward to (the post season)," he said.

Scanlon knows all about good goalies making great saves during big moments of tournament games. Before his tour here in Wilmington, he coached at Westford Academy and was on the sideline for a state championship, as well as a North sectional title in 1994. During that season, his team had a terrific goalie named Mike Ewers, who went on to play at Columbia University. Scanlon said Papageorgiou is in that same class of talent.

"Oh yeah, no question (Vinny's the best I've coached here at Wilmington)," said Scanlon. "Vinny's quicker than Michael was, but Michael was 6-foot-8, was agile as a cat just not as quick. He got really big in college and was very intimidating. But in high school, I think both of them are equals - I'd take either one. But today, around here, Vinny's the top draw. He's the best in the area. There's not too many goalies who can do what he does."

Pop Warner D1 team finishes strong season

The Wilmington D1 Pop Warner Wildcat football team finished their regular season Sunday with a decisive win over the Stoneham Spartans, 32-7. This win in the final game brings their record to 8-0 and gives them the opportunity to participate in the Pop Warner Eastern Massachusetts playoffs.

The Wildcats on-field accomplishments are a reflection of their teamwork. Parents and extended family have enjoyed this season thanks to coaching that emphasized the team concept and good sportsmanship.

The coaches' dedication to teaching the boys the sport and their commitment to excellence is very much appreciated. The team has a playoff game scheduled for Thursday, November 1st at 6:00 p.m. at the Wilmington High School football field.

The Wilmington Pop Warner D2 team includes: Bottom Row Left to Right: Darrin Cushing, Liam Soye, Joe Pineau, Josh Bryant, Mason Ouellette, Gab Saemchandi and Fox Maxwell. a win would have given the team the outright championship. Instead the team played very poorly in the first half, before coming alive in the second half but coming up short losing 1-0.

Two days after that the 'Cats hosted a one-win Tewksbury team. Again Wilmington played poorly as the teams were tied at 1-1 until Wilmington went up 2-1 with 80 seconds to go, only to see Tewksbury tie the game up in the final seconds on a penalty kick. But a big highlight of the game came when back-up goalie Craig Bush, started on the forward line and scored the game's first goal six minutes in on a nice pass from Andrew Goossens.

Then after several days off, Wilmington played to its second scoreless tie with North Reading, playing well in spurts and not so well in spurts.

"I don't know what it is," said Scanlon. "Maybe they think the Masco win was the end of the year for us. The way we have been playing is not a good sign. I had thought OK maybe they are leg weary because we have been playing three games a week for the past three weeks. We came out (Tuesday) and we battled and put forth a good effort and had our chances but we're not playing the way we're capable of. It was good that we showed some punk and we continued to fight back, but I'm concerned heading into the state tournament."

Because of the back to back ties, Scanlon believes Wilmington went from a top three seed to perhaps a top six seed, and could be lower if they fall to Billerica.

"Concord-Carlisle, Masco and Chelsea all have more wins than us and I think there's a few City teams that are unbeaten," said Scanlon. "But I still think we should get a home game."

Scanlon said there's so many teams that could give Wilmington problems, especially the way they are playing now.

"When you're playing desperate you never know what will happen," said Scanlon. "And who knows what will happen, or who will show up in the tournament. I think all bets are off when it comes to the tournament. I think teams with more tournament experience have the edge but for the most part I think all bets are off."

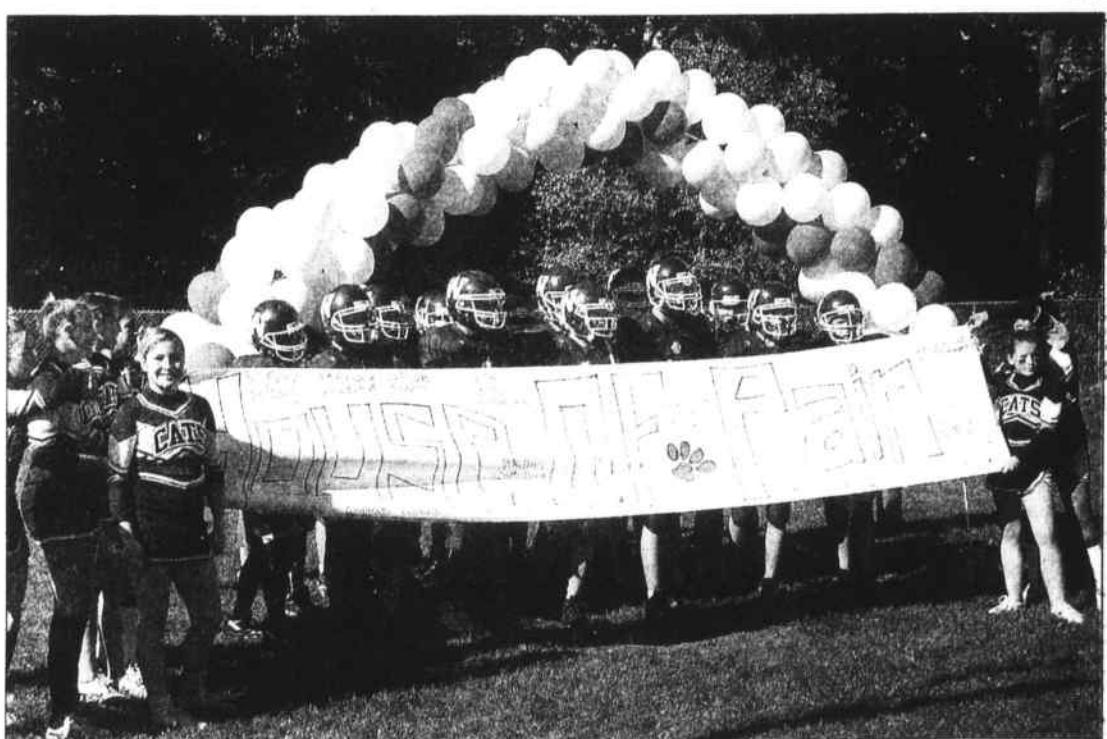

And what has to happen for the Wildcats to get back on track?

"We have to start playing our game," said Scanlon. "We're trying to be too direct and move the ball field too quickly. When we build up our offense from the back, with possession and circling the ball, that's when we're at our best. But we've gone away from that. (Going too direct down the field) is real defensible to drop your sweeper-back and take that away. We've already seen it happen. That's a concern for me."

"I just hope it's not a case of the season is too tough. I just hope that the kids just want to get it all going in the tournament. But you want these games towards the end of the season. You want to be playing your 'A game' right now. But certainly we have gone another way since the loss (to North Andover) and as a team you have to find a way to get back, and to get back on that horse and get going again."

Last year Wilmington was defeated in the first round of the Division 2 North sectional tournament by Stoneham. The year before the Wildcats defeated Chelsea in the first round before losing to Masconomet in the second round. This year's pairings will be announced on Thursday and most likely Wilmington will play perhaps Sunday.

A team advances to playoffs

It's been a long time since the Wilmington Pop Warner A Team has advanced on to playoffs. Anyone familiar with Pop Warner knows the competitiveness at the A level. Despite the tough competition, the Wildcats never gave up and persevered through numerous injuries earning themselves a playoff slot. The hard work and constant dedication by the A-Team football players and coaches has really paid off this year. Hopefully Billerica is ready for the "House of Pain"! On Wednesday Night October 31st at 8 pm the Wilmington A team will head to Billerica to face the Billerica Indians. Good luck to the Wilmington A-Team which includes: Nathan Downs, Matthew Ferreira, Kyle Albanese, John Parsons, Matthew McKenna, Edward DeLucia, Christian Houde, Cameron Babine, Jimmy Welch, Steven Reynolds, Joe King, Zack McNally, Robert Sutera, Robert Carlin, Trevor Foley, Jake Long, Alex Furlong, Nick D'Amelio, Alex Danas, Sean Veerman, Tyler Trites, Dan Pothier, Killian Smith, Nick Colletta, Scott Layton, Patrick Dunn. Coaches: Don Kenney, Steve Layton, Sean Layton and Chris Faison.

Congratulations on another great season. A special thank you to Lou Cimaglia, Sean Lort and Mark Ferreira for all there help on the side lines.

Rams girls soccer team comes away with a big win

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

As the Town Crier was being printed on Wednesday evening, the Shawsheen girls soccer team was still waiting to find out who their first round opponent would be in the Division 3 North Tournament, but even as they waited the Lady Rams had already come up with one big victory in tournament play.

On Tuesday afternoon, Shawsheen hosted CAC rival Northeast Regional in the first round of the State Vocational Tournament and came away with a thrilling 3-2 win in double overtime. The winning goal came courtesy of team leading scorer, sophomore Jenn Carroll of Wilmington, with two minutes left in the second extra session.

Carroll was set up by a combination of Stephanie Walsh of Wilmington and freshman Rachel Blanchard. Walsh started the play at midfield and Blanchard controlled the ball along the goal line before setting up Carroll in front of the net where she drilled the ball home for the victory.

"Jenn put on a really hard shot," Michaud said. "She blew out the back of the net she shot it so hard."

It was a huge win for the Lady Rams and it propelled them into the Voke finals on Wednesday afternoon against the winner of the other first round game between Blue Hills Regional of Canton and CAC rival greater Lowell at Assabet Valley High School. Results of that game were not available as of press time.

The win improved Shawsheen's record on the season to 11-2-3 overall, which should earn them a home game when state tournament play begins later this week or early next week.

Other goal scorers for the Lady Rams were Janel Madore of Tewksbury on an assist from Carroll on the first goal of the game. Northeast scored in the final minute of the first half before Heather Masse continued her torrid scoring pace of late with a goal early in the second half. Northeast tied the game with about five minutes left in regulation before Carroll's heroics ended it.

"It was a great game," Michaud said. "Northeast was missing their top goalie, but her replacement actually played very well. Northeast has really improved this year. It is their third season under this coach and they have gotten better every year."

Whoever their first round opponent in the state tournament is, Michaud and his squad are ready to get started.

"We are looking forward to it and it looks like we will have a home game in the first round," Michaud said. "Unlike last year the team is pretty healthy going in, so hopefully we can do well."

The CAC announced their league All-Stars earlier this week and the Lady Rams were well represented with five members of their team named to the squad.

Senior halfback Stephanie Walsh of Wilmington, junior sweeper Caitlin Gallagher, junior forward Heather Masse, senior goalie Kimmy Stockton of Tewksbury, and sophomore forward Jenn Carroll of Wilmington were all named to the team.

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team also qualified for the State Vocational Tournament, and despite playing very well, they dropped a tough 2-1 decision in overtime to a very talented squad from Greater New Bedford.

The Rams got a goal from Luke Riberio to tie the game at 1-1 with six minutes left in regulation before Greater New Bedford go the win with one minute left in the overtime period.

The boys were also very well represented on the CAC All-Star team with senior midfielder Brian Conway, junior midfielder Eric McLaughlin, senior forward Corey Pease, junior goalie Mike LaMonica and junior full-back Calvin McMillan of Tewksbury all being named to the squad.

It was the second selection to the All-Star team for McMillan and McLaughlin, while Conway was named for the third time.

Like the girls, the boys were awaiting word of their first round opponent in the state tournament and were hoping for one of the top two seeds and a possible bye in the first round followed by a home game. The Rams finished the season with a record of 11-2-5.

Football team ready for big test

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech football team will face their toughest test of the season this Friday afternoon when they travel to the Manning Bowl in Lynn for an unusual 3:45 pm kickoff against CAC Upper Division foe Lynn Tech.

The Rams, coming off a bye last week, will put their 6-1 record (1-0 in CAC Large) on the line against a Tigers team coming off of their first loss of the season, a 32-14 drubbing at the hands of undefeated Greater Lawrence last week.

Even with the loss, the Tigers are averaging over 31 points per game this season, as they have ridden a powerful rushing attack to their five victories. The Tigers have relied on a multi pronged attack this season, led by senior John Jones who has scored seven rushing touchdowns, four of them for 35 yards or more. Jones has also scored once on an interception return for a touchdown.

Also providing strong running for the Tigers are seniors Otis Green and Moses Valentine. Green has three rushing touchdowns, including one of 60 yards, on the season while Valentine has two and also has a kickoff return for a score.

"They have some big play capability," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "They have shown that they can score from anywhere on the field."

Leading the Tigers offense will be senior quarterback Jose Rios, who has thrown for three touchdowns this season and also ran for a pair of scores.

"They have a great running and four touchdowns in just two starts.

Defensively the Rams are coming off their best effort of the season, having earned their

Shawsheen Tech Individual Season Stats

Passing: Joe Gore, 41-77-2, 780 yds 8 TDs; Shaun Miller 4-5-0, 38 yds, 0 TD

Rushing: Chris Clark 77-568, 6 TDs; Cory Foss 30-236, 4 TDs; Pat Fullerton 56-205, 3 TDs; Josh DeLisle 18-109; Joe Gore 24-64, 1 TD; Mike Allen 1-20; Joe Killion 1-9; Shaun Miller 2 (-5).

Receiving: Joel Mignault 14-279, 2 TDs; Mike Allen 5-147, 2 TDs; Joe Killion 8-113, 1 TD; Shaun Miller 6-104, 2 TDs; John Allen 4-90, 1 TD; Chris Clark 4-48; Pat Fullerton 3-32; Josh DeLisle 1-5.

attack, but Rios can throw the ball as well," Costabile said. "They can definitely move the ball through the air."

While the Tigers have certainly shown the ability to score this season, they will also have to be ready to stop a Shawsheen offense that is returning to full strength and seems to be clicking on all cylinders.

Shawsheen quarterback Joe Gore of Wilmington is third in Division 3A with eight touchdown passes on the season, and he has thrown for 780 yards on the year, while the Rams will also see star sophomore running back Chris Clark return to full time action after missing most of the previous two games due to injury.

Clark has rushed for 568 yards and six touchdowns on the season, while fellow sophomore Cory Foss has run for 236 yards first shutout of the season last week in a 20-0 whitewashing of Whittier Tech.

Senior linebacker Matt Bradley of Tewksbury led the Rams last week with 11 tackles and has been outstanding all season and the Rams should also get a boost from the return of defensive tackle Pat Fullerton from injury. Fullerton may also see some time at his running back position as well.

The teams have just one common opponent on the season, with both having defeated Northeast Regional. Lynn Tech downed Northeast in week four by a score of 24-6, while the Rams knocked them off by a score of 33-0 in week three.

career at Somerville High. Phil Vaccaro, the current Reading High athletic director who coached Leo at Somerville, said Leo was "the best skilled soccer player ever to come out of Massachusetts."

O'Leary said that Nick Figueiredo will go down as one of the best players to ever play at Bowdoin.

"His first touch in tight areas is excellent," he added. "His decision making under pressure is very good. And he can finish and score goals."

"He scores big goals. A lot of guys can score goals against weak opponents. He's scored some big goals for us over the years."

Like most college seniors, Figueiredo is in the midst of the dreaded job search. He says if the job search doesn't pan out, he might try his hand professionally in England. Before all that happens, Figueiredo has at least one more game to play. Conference championship or no conference championship, Figueiredo will look back at his time at Bowdoin with pride.

"It's been an absolutely wonderful experience," he said. "My teammates have been my best friends for four years. I've had great coaches and great assistants. It's given me great exposure and has helped me make friends at other schools. I couldn't have asked for anything more."

School Resource Officers prove their value Policing our local schools

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

In today's economic climate, school officials have to be able to prove the worth of a new program before the town fathers who control the purse strings are willing to open up that purse to implement the program. Thus when the administrators at Woburn High School and Reading High School asked for funding for the School Resource Officer program, many promises had to be made as well as some compromises.

In Woburn, the compromise was made to keep some of the best parts of the former DARE program and make them a part of the School Resource Officer program. In Reading, the School Committee had to make a commitment that the program would be kept in place despite other budget cuts.

Woburn was able to start the SRO program with the start of school this September while Reading started the program in September of 2006. They now join Winchester and Burlington who have had SRO for several years.

Although the SRO program is new to Woburn High School, Principal Robert Norton has been familiar with it since the 1990's when he was at a regional high school in New Hampshire and former Woburn resident William Dexter was the SRO.

Norton said, "When I came here it was not new to me. I tried to start (an SRO program) nine years ago with then Police Chief Mahoney."

At the time the federal government was allotting grants for the program. However, it took too long for Woburn officials to grasp its importance and the grant money dried up.

Last year Mayor Thomas McLaughlin saw the light and accepted the proposal put together by Norton and the police department with the help of Winchester SRO Dan Perenick.

"The Mayor and the School Committee saw that we were not reinventing the wheel," Norton said.

He added, "We had a DARE program in Woburn elementary and middle schools. We tried to develop a program to have a school resource officer and keep parts of the DARE program."

As a result, Detective Edward Fumicello was selected to be the first SRO in Woburn. It was a good choice considering his background as the former DARE officer and a narcotics officer in the city.

Norton commented on the short-term success of the program that he has been able to notice and said, "I think the tone in the building has been affected by the resource officer in a positive way. It gives us another set of eyes and another set of legs to walk around the building and observe."

However, be certain that patrolling and observing is not the sole job of the SRO. The job is done on several levels and the SRO must go through special training before he can be certified by the National Association of School Resource Officers (NASRO).

According to Fumicello, the training is on three levels. The first is a one week basic course, which is followed by an advanced course.

SROs must go through special training before they can be certified by the National Association of School Resource Officers (NASRO). In addition to being another set of eyes, they are well trained to respond to violent situations in the schools. Bill Ryerson photos

The third course is called the "active shooter." Fumicello described it as a course designed to help the SRO deal with school violence situations.

This is a new course offered by NASRO. Information provided by the organization states: "This is an intensive five day hands-on course which focuses specifically on a one and/or two officer response to an active shooter or random violent incident on a school campus. NASRO and TDI (Tactical Defense Institute) instructors presenting the course are all certified firearms instructors with several years of tactical experience."

"The techniques presented in this course could also be utilized in active shooter incidents that might occur in other locations such as shopping centers or other places of business."

According to NASRO, "The Basic School Resource Officer Course is a forty-hour block of instruction designed for any law enforcement officer with two years or less experience working in an educational environment. A law enforcement officer in this liaison position is commonly referred to as a School Resource Officer.

"The course emphasizes three main areas of instruction: functioning as a police officer in the school setting, working as a resource and problem solver, and the development of teaching skills. Attendees will be given a working knowledge of the School Resource Officer concept and how to establish a lasting partnership with their schools." NASRO describes The Advanced School Resource Officer Course as "...a 24 hour block of instruction designed

Movie Reviews

"Dan in Real Life" a winner

STEVE CARRELL STARS AS DAN, a widower who hasn't dated much since his wife's death. He takes his children to his family's annual "close the beach house party" where he falls in love with his brother's (Dane Cook) date Marie played by Juliette Binoche.

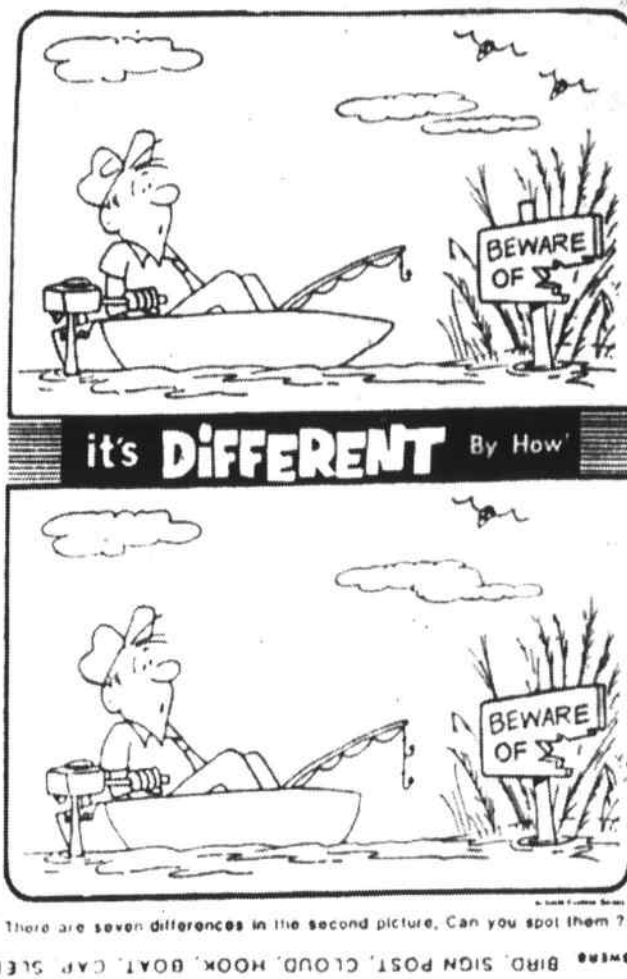

"DAN IN REAL LIFE"
GRADE: ***

On film, certain aspects of family reunions always look the same - they take place in a big, old house; there are always lots of kids; meals are awkward and there is almost always a game of touch football between the generations.

All these cliches are present in "Dan in Real Life", but they all work well.

The film stars Steve Carrell as a widowed father of three girls and author of a common-sense newspaper column, "Dan in Real Life." Dan hasn't done much dating since his wife died. He's a bit overprotective of the other girls in his life. He won't let Jan (Alison Pill) drive, even though she has her license. He does his best to keep hormonal 15-year-old Cara (Brittany Robertson) in check. And what parenting he has left is simply tolerated by his angelic fourth-grader, Lily (Marlene Lawston).

They go to his family's annual "close the beach house for the winter" get-together in New England, and that's where we learn how worried his folks — MOVIES to S-3

FALL-iday Fair Saturday in Reading

While the recent landscaping on the grounds of the Church of the Good Shepherd has caught the attention of those traveling Woburn Street, the work going on inside the church is even more exciting.

For the past year, crafters have been meeting monthly to create a wide assortment of handcrafted gift items and to plan this year's FALL-iday Fair to be held on November 3 from 9:00 - 2:30.

In addition to beautiful crafts, the fair will feature baked goods, Meals-to-Go, jewelry, toys, Gift Baskets, food, and live music.

Children will love the balloons, face painting and activities while adults can start their holiday shopping!

The Bargain Box, the well-known thrift store run by parishioners, will also be open.

Movies from S-2

Mahoney — and siblings (Dane Cook among them) are about him.

Then we meet Marie (Juliette Binoche), whom Dan meets in an old bookstore. She mistakes him for an employee; he offers her reading material to help her cope. They have coffee, and he blurts out his life and still gets her number.

And then he goes back to the family, ready to tell them that lightning has finally struck. Except she's the woman brother Mitch (Cook) has brought to this get-together.

The rest of the movie is Dan trying to do what any lovesick man would do - try to keep Marie away from his brother.

The script is great, as are Carell and Binoche (Cook is decent as well). Moviegoers looking to escape while they are in the theater will be out of luck, because the situations on screen will be all too familiar to some.

"GONE BABY GONE"
GRADE: ****

Moral ambiguity permeates "Gone Baby Gone," Ben Affleck's accomplished directorial debut. It starts with a mother who doesn't seem sufficiently upset when her 4-year-old daughter goes missing.

Having a child abducted is most parents' worst nightmare. But for Helene (Amy Ryan), it's more like a bad dream. Her worst nightmare would be failing to obtain her next line of cocaine.

Boston-bred Affleck takes a street-level approach to this adaptation of Dennis Lehane's ("Mystic River") novel, set in a tough section of the city. The story starts with the missing girl, Amanda, and fans out to a neighborhood composed of hard-working families, criminals and rough-around-the-edges folks who fall somewhere in between.

Gruff and dismissive, Helene is a piece of work. But Ryan refuses to play her as a caricature or villain. Helene emerges as someone you might recognize - that party girl who is too unmotivated to strive for a better life and too lacking in self-awareness to take responsibility for her mistakes.

Does Amanda have a difficult mother make her disappearance any less tragic? Patrick Kenzie, the private investigator played by Affleck's brother, Casey, doesn't think so. He grew up in this neighborhood, where even a comparatively refined person like him must show his toughness on a daily basis. He knows this place can harden a person, as it has Helene, whom he recognizes from high school.

That schoolgirl has aged but hasn't matured, as she shows while joking with Patrick about a guy she dated. Her demeanor is inappropriate given the circumstances of the scene, but the connection is solid, enabling Patrick to squeeze out information the police cannot.

When Helene's worried sister-in-law (a poignant Amy Madigan) first contacts Patrick and Angie (Michelle Monaghan), his girlfriend and associate, Angie blanches. Though she, of course, wants the little girl found, she doesn't want to be the one to discover her dead or abused.

Playing characters who survived a tough neighborhood with grace, Affleck and the equally appealing Monaghan just seem to fit together. But Patrick and Angie's desire to recover the young girl outweighs their attachment to their comfortable life.

Though soft-spoken, Affleck shows convincing grit as Patrick takes on cops who'd prefer it if he backed off and criminals who might be tied to the missing girl. Ed Harris plays a detective assigned to the case, and Morgan Freeman the captain of a unit specializing in crimes involving children.

A top notch thriller, and an impressive debut behind the lens for Affleck.

"MICHAEL CLAYTON"
GRADE: ****

Many of us roll our eyes today when another political scandal or celebrity meltdown hits the airwaves. Though we profess to be fed up with these disgraces, TV and internet ratings of their coverage suggest otherwise.

This is the scenario played out in the psychological thriller Michael Clayton. George Clooney plays Michael Clayton, a "fixer" in a prestigious Manhattan law firm. While this scenario alone would be enough intrigue to draw us in, the movie sets the bar even higher.

This reviewer found the transition back in time a tad confusing, but Clooney is so good, one couldn't help staying tuned in, and soon discovered the story is about a huge legal case. Michael's firm is representing U/North in a class-action lawsuit involving pesticides that caused physical harm to many of the plaintiffs. Conflict arises when Arthur (Tom Wilkinson), one of the firm's top litigators, puts the case in jeopardy.

The movie's tight story, surprising twists and focused direction keep the key characters in this story facing one moral and ethical dilemma after another, and who better to play them to the hilt than Clooney, Wilkinson, Swinton and Pollack.

BLACK AND ORANGE IN A NEW LIGHT

Amazing (Woburn)

"Woburn resident Kim Medeiros' summer job was a little bit out of the ordinary," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"She spent her summer transforming an interior wall of a friend's house in Maine into an exact life-size replica of the interior of the Woburn Public Library.

"Medeiros, who is entering her junior year at Maine College of Art in Portland, was approached by former Woburn resident Jarryl Larson, who asked Medeiros to paint the 387-square-foot mural in the house she shares with Byron Johnson in Edgcomb, Maine.

"Larson met Medeiros at the United Methodist Church on Main Street and first noticed her painting skills after seeing her bedroom ceiling in her home on Dix Road in West Woburn.

"As a teenager, Medeiros had decorated the ceiling with a mural of suns, moons and stars.

"Not exactly the Sistine Chapel, but the painting obviously made a real impression on Larson, who remembered Medeiros when it came time to paint the wall of her home library.

"She contacted Medeiros and asked her to submit sketches and bid against other artists for the painting job.

"According to Medeiros, Larson had long admired the architecture of the Woburn Public Library and was inspired by a dream she had to paint a replica of its historic interior on the wall of her own home library....

"Medeiros, a class of 2005 graduate from Woburn Memorial High School, claims that she had not painted in over a year before starting this project. A sculpture major at Maine College of Art, she credits her painting ability to skills she learned in basic high school art classes.

"Besides painting,

Medeiros enjoys ceramics, salsa dancing and playing soccer. However, she admits that her real passion is for sculpting.

"Medeiros takes art history, liberal arts and humanities, and studio art classes in college. The already established artist plans to graduate in 2009 and is unsure of what artistic feats she will tackle next."

Unanimous (Winchester)

"An effort to have Sandy Beach renamed in honor of the late state senator Charles E. Shannon, Jr., gained momentum with the unanimous support of the Board of Selectmen," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Sandy Beach, located on the Upper Mystic Lake on the Mystic Valley Parkway, is under jurisdiction of the state Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR), formerly the MDC. It is a popular swimming area for residents of the communities that Shannon served, including Medford and Somerville, as well as Winchester.

"Seeking the town's support in the effort were the late senator's son Charles E. Shannon III, former state representative Sherman Saltmarsh, Jr., and former selectmen Stephen Powers and William O'Leary. The group asked the board to send a letter to the DCR requesting the name change.

"Shannon, who died in April 2005 at the age of 61, served in the State Senate from 1991 until the time of his death. He was a member of the Board of Assessors for four years and a Lexington police officer for 20 years. During his legislative career, he received many awards including the Massachusetts Court Reporters Association's Legislator of the Year Award in 2000.

"In seeking the board's support, Powers called the proposal a fitting tribute to a man who served and supported his community for many years....

"The motion carried unanimously."

Oldest and youngest (Lynnfield)

"Every one of the 5,000 riders who rode in the 28th annual Pan-Mass Challenge has a story behind why they're there," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"The Richmans are no exception.

"David, 57, and Jonathan, 19, Richman, of 10 Heath Circle, rode in this year's bike-a-thon as a father and son duo, raising over $11,000 for research into the treatment and prevention of cancer as part of the PMC's goal of $27 million. The pair were the oldest and youngest of Lynnfield's nine participants in the event.

"I've had many family members who have been cancer victims and survivors," said David Richman. "It was a chance to give something back to people and families who have been affected by the illness."

"Richman, a physician, also rode the race to support several of his patients.

"Continued breakthroughs such as the cervical cancer vaccine have also fed Richman's drive to help support the event's fundraising efforts.

"You never know what to expect," said David. "Sometimes you see something that makes you laugh and other times you're taking off your sunglasses crying, overwhelmed with emotions."

"This year was the second for the elder Richman and first for his son. Jonathan volunteered willingly, recalled his father.

"He said, 'If my old man can do it, so can I,'" said Richman.

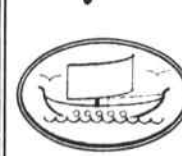

"Jonathan elaborated in his own words.

"I just know a few people who had died from cancer," said Jonathan, explaining why he entered the challenge. "It just seemed like something [my father and I] could do together."

"Both Richman's are not strangers to bike-a-thons. The pair rode together in Reid's Ride, which is held in memory of Lynnfield High School graduate Reid Sacco, who passed away at the age of 20 following a valiant battle with cancer....

"Seven other local residents took part in this year's Pan-Mass Challenge. Making the trek were Elizabeth Darragh, 51; Jim Fagan, 42; Gordon Forrest, 30; Sean Riley, 39; Don Sweeney, 40; and Tom Waisnor, 42....

The Stoneham High School Class of 1987 will hold its 20th reunion on Saturday, November 24 at Bear Hill Golf Club in Stoneham.

Members of SHS Class of 1987 are urged to visit www.classmates.com and view the class reunion page. Registration is free, and you'll be able to participate in the RSVP feature. There's no commitment when you RSVP, but entering a response will help with planning.

They are looking for updated addresses for class members, and are interested in borrowing high school photos.

If you have any questions or would like to help with planning the reunion, please contact Paul Simpson at shs.1987.reunion@gmail.com or 781-224-2449.

School Resource Officers

for any law enforcement officer working in an educational environment. This course will provide additional skills and programs for the experienced School Resource Officer to identify and diffuse potentially dangerous situations on campus.

Norton and Fumicello speaking separately described how the program has had a success in Woburn over the past weekend. They noted that two of teenage girls were going at each other and the police had been keeping an eye on them to keep them out of trouble. Because of his connection to the Police Department Fumicello was notified of the weekend activities and was then able to bring them into his office on Monday morning. He was able to talk to the girls and make sure that the weekend problems would not spill into the school.

Norton said, "We knew about and were able to isolate the two girls right away. That is an example of a problem we do not have."

Perenick has been the SRO in Winchester for close to seven years. The community was able to take advantage of the grant money that was available and as a result has earned a well-deserved reputation for being pro-active in preventing drug abuse and teenage violence problems over the years.

Burlington is another community that has had an SRO for many years. Detective Ed Fournier is the second officer to hold the position at Burlington High School.

Principal Patrick Larkin said, "When students see Officer Fournier in here it does not mean something has happened."

Larkin noted that the Burlington detective acts as a special guidance counselor to the students as well as being a good resource for the parents and teachers.

"We're fortunate because he has a law degree and can go into the classrooms and give lessons on aspects of the law."

In Woburn, Fumicello notes that it takes some time to build relationships with the teachers and students. However, his background as a former DARE officer and as an undercover narcotics officer has helped him reach out to the school's many students from diverse economic, social and ethnic backgrounds.

At the start of our interview, he stopped to shake hands with a student. He later explained that the student is a good kid who made a "stupid mistake" and is facing a court appearance.

"That does not mean I can't be friendly with him," Fumicello said.

He also noted that his position his helping him bring the students who get into trouble into a different light too his friends and colleagues at the police department. They now know that that kids that get into fights may not necessarily be bad kids.

In Winchester, Perenick wears many hats. He is the Commander of the North Eastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council's (NEMLEC) School Threat Assessment Response Systems Task Force (STARS), a 50-jurisdiction collaborative that facilitates safety in the region's schools, and is a co-chair of the Winchester Public School District Incident Management Team, along with Fire Captain Rick Tustin and Roseanne Gallery from the School Department.

Perenick instructs police officers in safe school planning, juvenile issues, and crisis and incident management and is a well-known presenter at various community, regional and statewide forums on topics related to school safety. He has also collaborated with many communities in this area on starting their own SRO programs.

According to Perenick, the program has two goals. The first is to help solve small problems and keep them from growing and the second is to work in collaboration with the teachers, police and fire personnel for safety in the schools.

If you are considering a move to an independent or assisted living community or have a loved one in need of skilled care ... it's time for a legal checkup.

- If you or your spouse has had a change in physical or mental condition, you should learn about the many programs and services that are available to you whether you want to remain in your home or are considering a move to an independent or assisted living community.
- If your Power of Attorney is not durable, it is not sufficient. If you have a Durable Power of Attorney, but it is only a few pages long, it is probably not sufficient for many common issues that elders face.
- If you and your spouse have "sweetheart" Wills (each of you leaves everything to your beloved spouse...), consider drafting new Wills which could protect your assets if one of you requires nursing home care.

Exercise greater control over your future by scheduling a legal checkup today.

NO DARK SHADOWS HERE

Beginning with youth in Reading

"Congressman John F. Tierney announced that the Reading Coalition Against Substance Abuse will receive a federal grant in the amount of $100,000," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The grant is a Drug-Free Communities (DFC) Federal grant administered by the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP) and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMSHA). The Reading Coalition, one of only 90 new grant recipients across the country, works to prevent and reduce drug and alcohol abuse among youth."

"Our communities need every tool at their disposal to help future generations fight against drug abuse," said Congressman Tierney. "I am very pleased that we were able to secure federal funds in this competitive climate to support the Reading Coalition's continued efforts toward reducing substance abuse."

"The goals of the Reading Coalition are (1) reduce substance abuse use among youth in Reading, MA, and, over time, among adults by addressing factors in the community that increase the risk of substance abuse and promoting factors that minimize the risk of substance abuse, and (2) establish and strengthen collaboration among Reading's nonprofit agencies and Federal, State and local governments to support the Coalition's efforts to prevent and reduce substance abuse among youths...."

"The DFC program provides grants of up to $500,000 over five years to community organizations that facilitate citizen participation in local drug prevention efforts. The ninety new grantees were selected from 321 applicants through a competitive peer review process. To qualify for matching grants, all awardees must have at least a six-month history of working together on substance abuse prevention initiatives, develop a long-term plan to reduce substance abuse, and participate in a national evaluation of the Drug-Free Communities Program.

"In December of 2006, Congress passed a five-year extension of the Drug-Free Communities Act. Since 1997, ten competitions have awarded over $450 million in grants to more than 1,000 community anti-drug coalitions such as Reading's."

Excellent scholarship in Stoneham

"Business and School Partnership Committee Chair Joseph Gresci (Erwin & Gresci, Ameriprise Financial) presented Scholarship Awards to graduating high school seniors who are affiliated with or related to Chamber members," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Chairman Joseph Gresci presented a Stoneham Chamber of Commerce Liberal Arts Certificate of Scholarship to Lindsey Kennedy, who attends Bentley College."

"Gresci presented the John F. Mahoney Vocational Arts Certificate of Scholarship to Ashley McNamara, who is enrolled at Bryant University."

"Chamber Past President Deborah Catalano and Gresci presented the Kathleen E. Bray Fine Arts Certificate of Scholarship to Lauren Creodon, who attends Harvard University."

Out of the shadows in Wilmington

"Mini grants for classroom teachers, a community-based mentoring program and an increase in school to career activities are just some of the many recent accomplishments of the non-profit Wilmington School/ Business Partnership, which is made up of local businesses and local agencies providing support to the Wilmington School System," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"For more than fifteen years, the partnership has provided Wilmington students with classroom presentations, field trips, hands-on business training, materials and financial resources, a mentoring program, and more."

"According to Wilmington Public Schools Superintendent Joanne Bennett, 'The Innovative Teacher Program is designed to encourage creativity in the schools, develop alternative or more effective methods of instruction, and reward imaginative education.'"

"This year's mini grants provided video equipment, and a field trip to the Butterfly Place for the benefit of students at the Shawsheen School. The Shawsheen School and the Woburn Street School received pedometers for their students, and a poetry program at the Woburn Street School was funded."

"A $10,000 grant from the Partnership provides for a School-to-Career Coordinator. The School-to-Career Coordinator provides an educational program that connects students and career opportunities using the Career Pathways model. The Career Pathways model links students' interests, strengths, and competencies with potential vocations."

"The coordinator plans, assesses, and instructs one class per seven day cycle, assists students in making career choices, assists in planning and preparing for careers and exploring educational avenues needed in developing a vocational identity and in making the transition into the world of work."

Other duties include, but are not limited to, monitoring students who leave school early for a work-study program, verifying work schedules, counseling students on work practices, evaluating student performance in the

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: What pitcher holds the major league record for most complete games pitched in a season without recording a shutout?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

HARVARD SENIOR QUARTERBACK CHRIS PIZZOTTI OF READING has earned the New England Football Writer's/ Boston Globe Division I Gold Helmet Award in an announcement made today at the organization's weekly luncheon held in the Dillon Field House on the campus of Harvard University.

Pizzotti turned in the fourth-highest passing game by a quarterback in school history with 365 yards and two touchdowns on 23 completions in a 27-10 victory over Princeton on Saturday at Harvard Stadium.

Eleven of his completions went for 14 yards or better on the afternoon. Eight of his completions went for at least 19 yards and he had 261 yards through the air by halftime. As good as he was in the opening half, he was even better in the second as Harvard maintained its lead and kept possession of the ball while limiting the Tigers to 36 yards of total offense in the last 30 minutes of play.

Pizzotti completed 6 of 7 passes in the third quarter for 65 yards and was 3-for-5 for 39 yards and a TD pass. In all, he Pizzotti continues to lead the Ivy League in passing efficiency (148.06) and is completing better than 62-percent of his passes (84-for-135). His 365 yards passing on Saturday moved him past current Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick '05 into fourth place on the school's single game passing chart.

"Need some help with this week's question? He played for the Red Sox."

Are your kitchen counters making you sick?

Porous material countertops a breeding ground for dangerous bacteria

Did you know that your kitchen actually harbors more bacteria than any other room in your home and the type of countertops you have may be making matters worse? Recent studies have found that porous material countertops can harbor dangerous bacteria, such as E. coli.

A recent University of Arizona at Tucson study identified the kitchen as the most germ-contaminated area in the home. The study reported that countertops are one of five key "hot zones," or sites with the highest bacteria counts. These hot zones can spread infections when germs are transferred from a contaminated item (your kitchen counter) to your hands to your body.

A second study conducted by the Hospitality Institute of Technology and Management (HITM) revealed that nonporous surfaces, such as stainless steel countertops or other NSF 51 certified materials, are least likely to harbor dangerous bacteria, such as E. coli, when compared to other popular household countertop materials.

The HITM study tested stainless steel, granite, plastic laminate, wood, tile and concrete surfaces to see which could be cleaned and sanitized most effectively. Each surface was contaminated with E. coli, washed and rinsed with soap and water, then sanitized with a vinegar and water solution. After the sanitizing procedure, the stainless steel surface was left with the fewest number of microorganisms. The study found each countertop surface had a different capacity for resisting bacteria and easy cleaning.

The study highlighted the fact that consumers need to consider wear-and-tear when selecting a countertop surface. After a few years, most porous surfaces, such as granite, laminate, marble, wood, concrete, tile and limestone wear down; lose their protective coating, scratch, and warp - all decreasing the ability to be effectively cleaned and sanitized.

With stainless steel being very limited as a household countertop solution, other nonporous materials such as quartz are becoming more and more popular with consumers as they try to combine healthier choices with the latest designs for their homes.

"Quartz surfaces are growing in popularity because although they have the beautiful appearance of natural stone, unlike granite, these surfaces never need to be sealed," explained Mark Hanna, President of Leeza Distribution Inc., distributor of HanStone Fine Quartz Surfaces.

That's because Quartz countertops, such as HanStone are not only highly scratch resist-

Brookside Home

Tapered columns set on stone veneer bases give a classic Craftsman look to the country-style Brookside. This two-story, midsize plan has an open, welcoming exterior, and a family-friendly interior.

Entering, you step into a foyer with an arched opening on the left that leads into a room with many possibilities. Designed for use as a dining room or parlor, it could just as easily become a home office, family study area, or you name it.

Day-to-day meals and activities center around the vaulted great room, which slopes up to the two-story ceiling and is wide open to the nook and kitchen. This is clearly the heart of the home. Two tall windows flank the gas fireplace, while wide sliding glass doors in the nook provide easy access to the partially covered patio.

Kitchen amenities include a large work island, roomy pantry, and built-in appliances. The desk that nestles into an alcove in the nook could be built with either shelves or cabinets above. Standing at the kitchen sink, you can gaze across the patio to watch the changing seasons, or keep tabs on activities and conversations in the nook and great room.

Laundry appliances are nearby in a utility room, complete with cabinets, folding counter, and deep sink. A handy powder room is just across a hall that provides direct access to the two-car garage.

A spacious owners' suite fills the right wing of the Brookside. Its bathroom boasts a dual vanity, oversized shower, and totally private toilet. The window seat in the large walk-in closet is an ideal spot to savor some alone time, curled up with a book you just can't put down. Two more bedrooms, a bath, and a bonus room are upstairs.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Brookside 30-613 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring more than 550 home plans is available for $15.
